

BOMBS REVENGE MRS. PANKHURST

English Militants Start To-day Upon a Campaign of Reprisal

BLOW UP STATION AND TRAIN

Empty Car Wrecked and Depot at Oxtet Is Demolished by Explosives

LONDON, April 4.—With Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant leader of the suffragettes in Holloway jail to begin her three year sentence of penal servitude for inspiring the Lloyd George explosion, the militant suffragettes lost no time in starting to carry out their threatened reprisals.

Today they blew up a train at Oxtet in Surrey and held demonstrative meetings all over London. Two young militants with suitcases packed with explosives and combustibles were arrested before they accomplished anything. The women who smashed valuable pictures at Manchester were held for trial.

Clockwork Bomb

An alarm clock set for 3 a. m., a contrivance similar to those used by dynamiters in America, was found in the wreckage of the Oxtet station and also a loaded pistol. Militant placards told that the explosion was the work of the women.

The laboratory of the station was completely demolished and the walls, windows and doors damaged. So far as known, nobody was hurt.

The Great western and the Midland railways, in view of the outrages threatened by the militants last night in retaliation for the sentence passed on Mrs. Pankhurst today issued a general warning to the public and placed extra guards at all stations, tunnels and along the tracks.

Partly Wreck Train

STOCKPORT, Eng., April 4.—Explosives today partly wrecked a London Northwestern railway train near here today. Nobody was injured. Suffragettes were suspected of the wrecking, in revenge for the conviction of Mrs. Pankhurst.

The damaged train was entirely empty except for employees. It contained seventeen cars and the supposed bomb went off in a third class carriage in the rear. Examination showed the car had been saturated with resin and fragments of a torn powder canister were found. Railway officials said they were sure suffragettes were responsible.

SHOOTS SELF IN THROES OF DREAM

CHICAGO, April 4.—A vivid dream, in which he saw a "black hander" crouching over him with an upraised knife, will cause the death of Tony Vicchioli, a 19 year old newsboy, who was rushed to a hospital today with a bullet in his breast.

Worn out after a long day's work, Tony went home at 2 o'clock this morning and crawled into his cot without removing his clothes. The revolver he always carries in fear of the Black Hand, was in his hip pocket.

His cousin, also named Tony Vicchioli, who rooms with him, was awakened just before day-break by a pistol shot. He rolled over and found his newsboy cousin half out of bed.

"I thought a black hander was getting me and I shot," the boy gasped.

NO TRACE OF LOST IMMIGRANT GIRLS

Federal Investigators and Others Find No Clue to Mysterious Disappearance

RELATIVES APPEAL FOR SEARCH

Nothing Heard of Missing Score Since They Landed from Steamer at New York

CHICAGO, April 4.—Federal officials, officers of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and members of the Illinois senate vice committee who are investigating the mysterious disappearance of twenty young immigrant girls from a Baltimore & Ohio train at Newcastle, Pa., on March 18, admitted today that they were no nearer a solution.

Ask Finch to Aid

Charles F. DeWoody of the department of justice, who wired federal authorities at Pittsburgh yesterday to start an investigation today asked Stanley W. Finch of Baltimore, chairman of the national commission for suppression of the white slave traffic, to join in the search for the missing girls.

Federal authorities at Pittsburgh today notified DeWoody that a priest who was aboard the immigrant train, wrote them that he saw the train pull out of the station, leaving the girls behind. The Pittsburgh officials say they have been unable to find any trace of the women.

Appeal to Juul

Chicago relatives of two of the girls, Tata Mesalis, a Polish girl, and Lena Anderson, a Swedish girl, today appealed to Senator Juul, member of the Illinois vice commission, to aid them in the search for the young women. The relatives received messages from New York on the arrival of the steamer Baltic on March 15 saying that the girls had reached port and would arrive in Chicago with the party of immigrants.

TOWNS IS BURNING

CALGARY, Alta., April 4.—Langdon, a town 20 miles east of here, is burning. A telephone message received today stated that the fire, starting in a livery stable had consumed that structure, the hotel and with a strong wind blowing had spread across the street to several frame buildings, consuming them. A motor truck of the Calgary fire department has left for Langdon. A cigarette is said to have started the fire.

HUERTA TO RESIGN TO PICK LASCURAIN

Former Madero Minister to Be Elected Provisional Head of Mexico

EL PASO, Texas, April 4.—To satisfy all factions in Mexico, General Huerta has agreed to the naming of Pedro Lascurain as provisional president, said advices received here directly from the Mexican capital. Lascurain would serve out the uncompleted term of the late President Madero.

As minister of foreign relations in Francisco I. Madero Jr.'s former cabinet, Lascurain is entitled to serve as next in line in view of the deaths of Madero and Vice President Suarez. The Huerta cabinet would be retained by a compromise.

This arrangement, it is said, has been offered to the constitutionalists now fighting the Huerta government in northern Mexico. The decision of Provisional President Huerta is said to have been occasioned by the recent uprising of Emiliano Zapata, in the south, which places the Huerta forces between two fires.

SAYS DARLING HAD HYPNOTIC CONTROL

Wife of Prof. Olson Who Shot Home-wrecker Says She Was Powerless

LIVED IN TERROR OF DRIVER

Laundryman's Threat to Kill All Three Preyed Upon Minds of Man and Wife

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 4.—The ghostly finger of the psychic world intruded its intangible length into the trial of Professor Oscar Olson of the University of Minnesota for the murder of Darling, the laundry man, today. The power of mental control was flashed into the story of Olson as in broken sentences he told of the confessions of his wife.

"I was held in his arms and he would gaze into my eyes until he had me under his control. His mind mastered mine and I could only do what he wished. He hypnotized me."

Details Intimacy

This is what Olson declared his wife had told him. Under the mental scourging of County Attorney O'Brien the prisoner was forced to go into detail of the alleged intimacy between his wife and the murdered man.

Word by word, sentence by sentence, with odd little rushes of description, the suffering man gave up the story. His body turned and twisted and his lips trembled but he was forced to bare every vestige of the skeleton in his home. He gave a description of his talks with his wife in the bedroom after her return home at her telegraphed requests, and he dwelt on the excuses she offered.

"That man has a strange power over me," Olson said his wife told him. "He looks and looks at me until I feel my will swaying and my moral hold loosening. I can deny him nothing. I am in terror of him."

Lived in Terror

It was evident from the story of Olson that from the time his wife confessed her guilt in November until the time of the shooting he lived in a constant state of terror. Darling's threats of murder and suicide as conveyed to Olson by the wife were ever in his mind.

Olson is steadily breaking under the strain and a collapse is feared. Mrs. Olson weeps at times. When she was branded with the burning fire of the scarlet letter by her husband she grew ghastly and then with a rush of blood to her face she buried her head in her hands as if to shut out the eyes of the court room that were staring at her from every side.

OPPOSE FREE SUGAR

LANSING, Mich., April 4.—The Michigan house of representatives went on record today as being opposed to any reduction in the tariff on sugar on the ground that a lower rate might ruin the beet sugar industry of the state. The resolution of J. N. McBride, progressive, protesting to congress against removal of the sugar duty was adopted.

LEHNEN ASKS RECOUNT

Peter Lehen, member of the county board of supervisors from the Third ward of La Crosse, today asked for a recount of the vote on supervisor. PANAMA MOON IS ALLY FOR CUPID

CHICAGO, April 4.—The tropical moon that hovers over the Panama canal plays havoc with the hearts of lady stenographers taken from the United States for work in the zone, according to officials of the C. G. Warren company. This firm secured a contract for part of the work on the canal and sent several stenographers from the main office.

In one year three stenographers married supervising engineers, four others married foremen and one eloped with a native. The firm now makes stenographers sign a pledge to remain single, if sent to the isthmus.

DENGLER APPEALS FOR AID IN RELIEF

Mayor Urges La Crosse to Respond More Generously to the Call for Flood Help

FUND TO BE CLOSED MONDAY

Executive Says the Fund to Be Sent by This City Should Be at Least $2,000

Calling attention to the daily appeals in the press dispatches for immediate aid for the flood sufferers in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, Mayor John Dengler today made an urgent appeal for more contributions to swell the relief fund being raised for the victims in La Crosse. The lists will be closed Monday and the sum raised dispatched immediately.

The first few days of the flood the response to the mayor's appeal, made on the first day of the disaster, met with ready and generous response, but during the last week the donations have been falling off. The total so far raised is less than $1,500, and the mayor wants the fund to be increased to $2,000 at least.

"The plight of the cities in the Ohio valley is one of the most pitiable things that has happened to the United States," the mayor said today. "These cities are practically in ruins, and transportation is only just being established. They need everything—money, food, clothing. It is almost impossible for us comfortable and secure, to realize the wretchedness of their existence since the water went down."

"The aftermath of the flood in Ohio is as dangerous as the water itself. Pestilence threatens them, and money is a necessity to procure proper sanitary measures."

"The floods are by no means over. The water has passed out of the Scioto and Miami rivers, but it is going down the Ohio river and today at Cairo a desperate battle is on to block the city streets from the waves that hang over them. Calls for help are coming from every town in the flooded area, and we must not ignore them."

"I would suggest that every church in the city Sunday do its utmost for the flood sufferers. Let every congregation respond liberally to the appeal which I feel sure every pastor will make. It is this kind of charity which is the true work of religion."

DEDICATE SHAFT MEMORIAL DAY

Judge Cronon Appointed to Take Charge of Ceremonies at Graves of Soldiers

Judge Edward Cronon was elected to take charge of the Memorial Day exercises by Wilson-Colwell Post No. 38, G. A. R. at the regular monthly meeting of the post in the court house last night. Judge Cronon has had charge of the memorial program for several years and undertook the handling of the program this time under protest. He urged the post to turn the arrangements over to the Sons of Veterans or the Spanish War Veterans but the old soldiers insisted upon his taking charge once again.

The principal part of the program will be the dedication of the old soldiers' monument the erection of which was completed last week in the old soldiers' lot at Oak Grove cemetery.

The monument is a tall granite shaft bearing a life sized figure of a civil war soldier at parade rest looking over the ground which shelters the bones of his sleeping comrades. The monument is a beautiful memorial presented by Wilson-Colwell Post and it is expected that thousands of persons will attend the dedication ceremonies.

AYLWARD TO BE FEDERAL ATTORNEY

Madison Democrat Slated to Succeed George Gordon of La Crosse Next Month

WOLFE IS OFFERED CONSULSHIP

Declined Position That Would Take Him Away from Home; May Get Special Appointment

John A. Aylward, senior member of the firm Aylward & Davies of Madison, has been appointed United States district attorney for the western district of Wisconsin and will take possession of the office upon the expiration of the term of George Gordon of La Crosse, next month. This is the information brought from a reliable source in Madison today.

The appointment for nearly every office in the state were discussed and decided upon at a meeting of three weeks ago. Although William F. Wolfe of La Crosse was said to have been in a receptive frame of mind if the appointment of United States attorney came his way, the La Crosse democrat threw his support to Aylward in the meeting. Mr. Wolfe was offered the consulship to Berlin, Germany, a position which draws a salary of $10,000 a year. He was also in line for the position of assistant attorney general but he declined to accept an office that would take him from his home and law practice in La Crosse.

Entitled to Recognition

Interviewed today on his return from a week's stay in Chicago, Mr. Wolfe said that Mr. Aylward was slated for the United States district attorney generalship and that he would undoubtedly accept the position.

"Mr. Aylward is entitled to substantial recognition as one of the ablest leaders of the democratic party in the state," he said. "He has always been on the firing line and the democratic success at the last election was largely due to his efforts."

Mr. Wolfe admitted that he had been offered the Berlin appointment but had declined to take a position that would take him from La Crosse.

It is probable that Mr. Wolfe's services to his party will be recognized by appointment as special government attorney in one or more of the many "trust busting" cases which the Wilson administration inherited from the Taft regime. Frank Kellogg of Minneapolis won national fame through an appointment of this kind during the Roosevelt administration and it is more than likely that Mr. Wolfe's fighting qualities and legal acumen will win him quick recognition in national politics.

Skaar to be Postmaster

The postmastership of La Crosse was touched upon at the Madison meeting but no action taken, it being the attitude of those present that local postmasterships should be taken care of by the citizens concerned. Up to the present no one has appeared in opposition to O. T. Skaar for the postmastership and a large number of the business men have signed petitions for his appointment. It is probable that he will receive the appointment.

PREDICTS CONGRESSWOMEN

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Congresswomen—petticoat legislators may soon sit in congress, according to Representative-elect Johnson of Washington. "I hope the first congresswoman shall come from my state," Johnson declared to a suffrage mass meeting. "I see no reason why some brainy woman should not aspire to a seat in congress. The men gave suffrage to women in the state of Washington, most of the newspapers are for it, and neither the men, nor the newspapers need oppose this innovation."

Johnson said re-districting Washington left a virgin territory near Spokane for invasion by a woman candidate for congress.

M'MANIGAL GONE ON FISHING TRIP

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 4.—Ortie McManigal went fishing. This was the explanation made today by attaches of the jail and district attorney's office for the mysterious disappearance of the little dynamiter from the jail yesterday.

Accompanied by Detective McLaren, McManigal left the jail at 5 a. m. and for hours the district attorney and the jail attaches said they did not know his whereabouts. The afternoon lengthened into night and still no McManigal. When excitement was intense, considerably after dark last night and rumors spread that Ortie had been set free by the county authorities, he and McLaren reappeared.

They displayed a long string of fish taken at Redondo Beach.

SAYS FLOOD LOSS IS NOT NECESSARY

Head of Drainage Congress Says Americans Have Ignored Natural Laws

DESTROYED NATURE'S RESERVOIRS

Declares Artificial System of Reservoirs and Big-gers Channels Are Needed

CHICAGO, April 4.—"Flood losses can be prevented. The protection of the people and their property from floods is an engineering problem, pure and simple. The American people have tried to ignore the natural law that a certain volume of water requires a certain flood way with a certain fall and they have proceeded blindly upon the supposition that they could turn swamps, marshes and forests into towns, roads and farms without disposing of the water that formerly used these places as reservoirs."

This is the emphatic statement made by Edmund T. Perkins, president of the National Drainage congress at a meeting of the American Reclamation federation, in the La Salle hotel, today. The meeting was called to discuss plans to prevent a repetition of the flood disasters, which will be taken up at St. Louis, April 10, at the third annual meeting of the Drainage congress. A bill is being prepared to present to the congress.

"We do not contend that we can change the natural laws," said Perkins, "but we do declare that these frightful flood losses come as the result of violating natural laws. We have not provided artificial reservoirs to replace the old storage places. Worse than all, we have calmly decided that we can largely increase the volume of water to be taken care of in flood seasons and keep the increased flow within the same flood way."

"In the solution of this problem, it seems to me that every aid of engineering science must be brought into place. We will need artificial reservoirs, reforestation, stronger levees, bank revetment, deeper channels, and most important of all, we must have wider floodways."

NEW PASTOR HERE FOR ST. JOHN'S

German Reformed Church Procures Rev. E. Vornholt to Succeed Rev. F. W. Lemke

After five months without a pastor, the St. John's German Reformed church, Fourth and Market streets, has procured Rev. E. Vornholt, formerly of Waukon, Iowa, to succeed Rev. F. W. Lemke, who left the congregation the first of November.

During the months when the church has been without a pastor, Rev. G. D. Elliker, general secretary of home missions of this city, and Rev. M. Kern, pastor emeritus, have alternated in supplying the pulpit.

Rev. Vornholt, the new pastor, arrived in this city the first part of the week and has been spending his time in getting acquainted with his parish. He will preach his introductory sermon Sunday morning.

SANDBAGS HOLD BACK THE FLOODS

Water Passes Top of the Levee and Seeps Through Into Pools in Cairo Streets

DESPERATE WORK TO CHECK FLOOD

Citizens Toil Incessantly to Keep Back Rush Until the Ohio Begins to Fall

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 4.—The West Hickman levee gave way shortly after noon today and over 500 homes are being washed away. All inhabitants escaped.

Governor Earl Brewer of Mississippi this afternoon rushed 200 convicts from the Mississippi farm by special train to Miller's Bend, above Greenville, Miss., where a crevasse in the levee threatened.

CAIRO, Ill., April 4.—The Ohio stood at 54.7 feet gauge this morning seven tenths higher than any previous record. The river is still rising and will go a little higher before the crest is reached. While the situation here is very critical, it is still hoped that Cairo will escape inundation.

At least two days of battle with the Ohio confront the workers on the embankment as the crest of the flood is not due before Sunday, according to the forecast. The stage of the Ohio river this morning was 54.7. While the increase scarcely is perceptible, the strain on the levee is terrific, and no break has been reported to relieve the situation.

Sand bags, packed and massed in to temporary bulkheads that would give way in a twinkling should a heavy wind sweep the waters toward the city, were all that stood between Cairo and destruction today.

Water Seeps In

The river is above the Ohio levees. Water is seeping through these hastily constructed bulkheads and soldiers, laborers and citizens who have fought desperately to save the city, are ready to seek refuge on half a hundred rafts and boats, stationed in the down town section the minute the bulkhead gives way.

Big barges and steamers are patrolling the levee front just off the city, prepared to rescue refugees if the levee breaks. Great pools of water that have seeped up through the lower levels in the center of the town, are flooding corners in the business section.

Yet in spite of this imminent danger, residents of Cairo today were hopeful. The fear that the bulkheads would give way yesterday they found was without foundation, and today they believe that the waters may recede before a high wind sends the sand bag structure crumbling down before the current. The news that the rise of a foot at Paducah, Ky., was not followed by a quick rise at Cairo cheered them. River men believe that the waters were drawn off through a new channel cut by the river torrent into the Mississippi.

Food Supply Low

Provisions are running low at Shawneetown. Rations were promised from Louisville, but the population of the town, encamped on the hills overlooking their ruined homes, are practically without food. Refugees in Anson, Mississippi, county, Missouri, are reported in need of both food and shelter.

Thirty persons were picked up by the "City of Cairo" at O'Brien's Landing and deposited at Wickliffe, Ky., early today.

Over 2,000 men were at work on the levee south of Hickman last night endeavoring to prevent a repetition of last year's flood, which inundated the Reelfoot district when that levee broke.

Although conditions are desperate at Mound City, the river being higher apparently there than at Cairo, fully a foot, that city has held out and will probably survive. In response to a request, Cairo last night sent up 50,000 sacks and two companies of the Seventh regiment.

Washouts Delay Cox

DAYTON, O., April 4.—Governor Cox and the Ohio flood relief committee who had prepared to go to Zanesville today on their special train to investigate flood conditions there, gave up the proposed trip when they were informed that Pennsylvania railroad repairs had been washed out by last night's heavy downpour. They will attempt to make Piqua instead.

The rain, which ceased during the night, began again this morning and certain districts of Dayton and Hamilton are again inundated by a few inches of water. The authorities, however, say there is no danger. The continuous downpour has had a heartening effect upon a large number of flood sufferers.

Evansville Levee Goes

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 4.—Heroic work for three days went for naught when the Ohio river levee at Ingleside, a few miles west, gave way today and let in from six to ten feet of water on 200 families. Minute men gave the alarm and not a life was lost.

The river continued to rise slowly, a stage at noon of 48.4 feet, the

LIMESTONE GOOD FOR ACID SOIL

Balmer Sends Samples for Analysis; La Crosse Product Valuable to Farmers

The farmers of La Crosse and adjacent counties are fortunate in being able to secure superior natural ground limestone at the city of La Crosse for use in applying to acid soil. Lime is absolutely essential to the growth of plants, yet it is required in comparatively small amounts. Crops vary considerably in the amount of lime required for normal growth.

There is usually enough lime present in the native soil to supply all future crops with what is actually needed by the various crops grown. But lime performs other functions in the soil than the supply of plant food. One of the most important of these is neutralizing the acidity.

Acid soils are becoming too plentiful in La Crosse county. Practically all the sandy land in Wisconsin is distinctly acid, which is a condition decidedly unfavorable to the best crop production and a condition which means partial or total failure of such crops as clover and alfalfa. These leguminous crops have power by means of bacteria which live on their roots to increase the nitrogen of the soil and thereby increase fertility.

Aside from sandy land much soil that has been cropped for many years becomes acid. Low marshy land especially has a tendency to be distinctly sour.

Another important function of lime is the liberation of plant food which exists in a chemical condition in the soil not available to plants.

Realizing the need of lime for agricultural purposes, F. E. Balmer of the County Agricultural school secured samples of limestone from the local stone company and sent them to Madison for analysis. The analyses given for the sample sent indicates 95.4 per cent of carbonates.

The need for lime can be easily determined by what is known as litmus paper test. The test may be made immediately following a rain.

The test is made by inserting in the soil a piece of blue litmus paper, which can be obtained from any druggist. This should be left in contact with the moist soil for at least five minutes. If the paper is turned to a red or pinkish color is an indication of an acid soil and therefore a need for lime.

Limestone is applied in varying amounts. The usual application being from one to two tons per acre.

Rock Cannon.

When the island of Malta was under the rule of the Knights of St. John they defended their fortifications with cannon bored in the living rock. Each one of these strange weapons contained an entire barrel of powder, and as it was not possible to vary the aim of these cannon fifty were made ready, facing various directions from which the enemy might approach. When the fame of these arms of defense became known to the world the idea was taken up of transporting rocks to summits to serve the same purpose, but it was soon recognized to be impracticable, and the cannon of Malta, bored in solid rock, have passed into history as the sole weapons of the kind ever known.

The Transformed Pythagorean. Some undergraduates once wished to play a practical joke upon a man who was a disciple of Pythagoras, so one day when he was a little sleepy by reason of the amount of brandy and soda that he had imbibed his friends smeared him with honey and rolled him in the inside of a feather bed.

When the disciple of Pythagoras got up in the morning he looked in the looking glass at himself and said slowly, with a whistle, "Bird, by Jove!"—London Telegraph.

VARSITY GLEE CLUB CONCERT TONIGHT

Several La Crosse Men in University Musical Organization Which Is on a Tour

The University of Wisconsin Glee and Mandolin clubs arrived in the city about noon today in their special car from Tomah where they gave a concert last night. They will repeat their last night performance in the high school auditorium tonight.

The concert at Tomah was one of the best ever heard in that city and was attended by a very large crowd of people. The clubs are finished entertainers and are always greatly appreciated wherever they go.

The Glee club is of interest to local people on account of the comparatively large representation this city has among its members. Homer Davis and Adolph Emerson, both graduates of the local high school, are members of the club and Davis takes part in one of the sketches besides all of the choruses. Mr. J. W. Wilce, former athletic director at the high school, also sings in the club.

From here the organizations will go to Winona, where they will repeat their concert. On their return to Madison they will give a joint concert with the University of Michigan clubs which promises to be the musical treat of the season at Madison.

A informal reception will be given in the Glee club after the concert in the lunch room. Everybody is invited to attend.

COLONEL RICHARDS WINS OVER M'COY

Defeat of Candidate for County Judge at Sparta Comes as a Big Surprise

SPARTA, Wis., April 4.—The election of county judge and county superintendent of schools of Monroe county this year was about all there was to spring politics and much of the apathy of an off year was apparent. Although things were quiet on the surface, there was much politics of the gum shoe type as was manifested in the results.

The election of M. M. Haney over W. C. Harrison was expected, although Mr. Harrison conducted an active campaign through personal friends near Wilton, was represented in the northern half of the county by Rev. C. E. Butters of Viroqua, who occupied himself for several days among church brethren and military friends.

Richards Victory a Surprise

The defeat of Judge McCoy by Colonel R. A. Richards, after sixteen years on the bench and following his four elections over strong opposition, was the surprise in the returns. It was not expected by Judge McCoy's friends, and the election of Mr. Richards was a shock from which his friends are just now recovering. Much speculation is in progress as to just what Mr. Richards' election means in a large political way, and to what it may be attributed and what arrangement has been made whereby progressive republicans of the county seat worked tooth and nail for the elevation to the bench of "the only remaining stalwart in captivity." The vote throughout the county was largely in Judge McCoy's favor, but he came out in the city and town of Sparta two hundred and fifty votes behind and he was never able to regain the lead. Even the city of Tomah showed up much better for McCoy, in spite of Mr. Richards' former residence there.

The late unpleasantness in school affairs, which was promoted by Senator Teasdale, defeated candidate for school treasurer, was industriously kept festering and was used to a great extent, not by Mr. Richards but by some of his supporters, to defeat McCoy in the city and town of Sparta. In fact, it is now said that this special school meeting was planned with the express intention of discrediting McCoy and attempting to beat him for county judge.

Head of the Stalwarts

County Judge-elect Richards is the head and front of the stalwart organization of Monroe county. It is said that he has assisted in distributing anti-progressive and anti-La Follette funds in the county since they began to divide on that basis. It was he, they say, who told the boys to vote for Rose back in the days of the second La Follette campaign. He attended the last pre-election meeting called by E. L. Phillip in Milwaukee, from Monroe county of Monroe county elected on the democratic ticket. His supporters in the city and county include the part of the progressive machine headed by Senator Teasdale of this city, progressive leader by virtue of his office. And persons wonder if the quarrel has not been patched and if hereafter there will not be a "Good Lord, Good Devil," party policy on the part of the republicans.

The New Council

The city council for the ensuing year will be composed of Aldermen Burton and H. W. Jefferson of First ward; W. S. Jones and Elbert Brooks from the Second ward; F. E. Baldwin and E. G. Kowitz from the Third ward and C. Sutherland and A. W. Smith from the Fourth ward. Mayor McMillan's term extends for another year. O. J. Jackson was elected justice of the peace; S. R. Burroughs, C. M. Van Antwerp and John Lloyd continue to represent the First, Second and Third wards, respectively, on the county board. Geo. Lillie will represent the Fourth ward, being elected in place of Z. R. Rice, who was not a candidate for reelection. Mr. Lillie will have much to do to fill the shoes of his predecessor, Mr. Rice, who was a member of great influence and ability and whose place on the equalization committee will be hard to fill because of his great fund of personal knowledge of land values and general conditions throughout the county.

Perfect Chronometers.

The French watchmaker, notwithstanding years of trial, is not yet able to rival the Swiss, nor is he able to manufacture chronometers equal to those made in Geneva. The chronometrical observatory of Besancon has interesting records on this subject. This observatory subjected watches to severe tests under a great variety of conditions before formulating the rule that a watch to be perfect must meet with not less than 300 requirements. Judging by this hard and fast rule, there are no perfect watches in the world, yet certain pocket chronometers have covered over 203 of the points laid down by the observatory.—Harper's.

MADERO MURDERED BY DIAZ AND HUERTA, DECLARE REFUGEES IN SAN FRANCISCO

Captain Joaquin Bauche Alcaide (left), his brother, Colonel Manuel Bauche Alcaide, and the latter's wife and children.

That the late Francisco Madero was murdered by Felix Diaz and General Huerta is the positive statement made by Colonel Manuel Bauche Alcaide, a Mexican refugee in San Francisco. Alcaide, an officer in the Mexican army and editor of the New Era, a newspaper in Mexico City, was compelled to flee to this country with his family, as he was marked for slaughter by the Huerta government. He says that English capital to the extent of $14,000,000 was used by Felix Diaz in the latter's revolution against Madero.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Winnie's Easter Clothes Make Her Trouble

Winnie Admired Her Clothes.

EVELYN had a new hat and a nice new dress for Easter. Jack also had a new suit.

Daddy smiled when Evelyn told him about her clothes.

"No doubt they are very nice," he said, "but I hope you won't think so much about them as little Winnie did about hers."

"Winnie's mother bought her a pretty blue silk dress and a hat with a blue feather in it for Easter."

"She could hardly wait until Easter, so anxious was she to go out and show them off."

"When Easter Sunday came, Winnie prinked and fussed so much over dressing that she was late for church. Her mother was not going that morning, and she warned the little girl she must hurry. The church was only a block away, and Winnie often went alone."

"When she reached the church door she met no one going in. You see, the services had begun."

"Winnie smiled. She was rather pleased to be late, for now she felt sure every one would see how nice she looked."

"She opened the door very gently and peeped in. Away down the aisle she could see the family pew, with grandpa and grandma and a couple of uncles and aunts all sitting very straight and prim. They were very particular about manners in church, and Winnie was always on her best behavior there."

"The minister had just finished saying something when, with a rustle, the choir got up. They were going to sing an Easter anthem, but Winnie did not know that."

"They are looking at me," thought the vain little girl as she stepped inside the door and started down the aisle to the pew where she belonged.

"Then the choir began to sing."

"Why, the idea!" Winnie whispered. "Hardly knew you! Hardly knew you!" she thought they sang. The tenor made awful faces too.

"Oh!" cried Winnie to the choir. "You are very, very rude!" And the congregation tittered as they saw a little girl run out of church.

"When church was over grandma stopped at Winnie's house. She explained that what the choir had really said had been 'Hallelujah! Hallelujah!'"

"And if you hadn't been thinking so much about your clothes and late for church you wouldn't have acted as you did. It was very silly, and no wonder every one laughed at you."

MR. DENGLE NEED
HAVE NO REGRETS

Mr. Dengler was decisively beaten.
No doubt Mr. Dengler regretted that,
but in his mainly way he smiled it off. Scores of citizens—the sort of men whose friendship tells—came to shake his hand the next day and to say they were sorry. And Mr. Dengler met them pleasantly and gamely,
and took his medicine.

You see, Mr. Dengler was not surprised. He had entered the contest convinced that he would be defeated.
F. H. Hartwell, his chairman, had agreed with him that there was no chance. These men knew the things debated were but side issues, and that Mr. Dengler was to be defeated by a prejudice that paid no heed to qualifications or records. They made a great campaign, one of sound logic
and able debate in support of good principles. On the merits of that debate, and of the past administration, they won. But the jury admitting their case, said, "Yes, but—"

Knowing these things, John Dengler knows that he was not personally repudiated. He knows he was the victim of a passing wave of passion.
He knows his friends and neighbors know him for a manly, clean and lovable citizen. Why should John Dengler grieve?

ENGLISH VIEWS OF WORLD PROBLEMS

Angus Hamilton, the English war correspondent, who was in the field with the Turkish army during the first part of the Balkan war, depicts
"the unspeakable Turk" as an entirely different person than he is generally considered to be in this country. Directly contrary to the prevalent impression in America, Mr.
Hamilton declares the Turkish rule in Europe has not been marked by atrocities. And, as between the various peoples who have been making war on the Turk, and the latter, he prefers the Mohammedan.

Mr. Hamilton, in the course of a long discussion of world events, said recently, that most of the cruelties inflicted upon the Macedonians and the other nations of southeastern

Europe were due to dissensions
among the Christians of those countries.

"The Turks," said he, "are most tolerant in matters of religion. Many of them have married Christian women, and half of their children are followers of the cross. They have allowed the nations under their rule
in Europe the widest latitude in religious affairs. It was only when the Christian sects warred among themselves that the Turk stepped in to take a part in the dissensions. The hatred among the Christians in those countries was so intense that the most barbarous cruelties were inflicted upon the adherents of the Christian church if they even dared to set foot in the house of worship
of another sect."

Mr. Hamilton was strong in his denunciation of the supposedly Christian men who were enrolled in the Turkish armies, but who, by the thousands, deserted to the armies of the allies.

According to the English war correspondent, the Turks were utterly unprepared for war, while the Bulgarians had prepared for many years for the conflict with the crescent. Despite the handicap of numbers and the inefficiency of the soldiers' equipment, he declares they fought with wonderful bravery. Often, he said, they went hungry into battle, and against insurmountable odds.

Firm in the belief that the Asiatic never will be fitted for self-government, Mr. Hamilton blames much of the seeming decadence of Turkey to the young Turks. This same unfitness for a republican form of government, he believes will do great harm
to the Persians and to the Chinese,
and it even will work for evil in Russia. The granting of too many privileges to the people of India, beginning with Lord Curzon while he was viceroy, is slowly undermining the authority of the English in India, in Mr. Hamilton's opinion, and will eventually lead to great trouble for the British in Asia.

The English view of the dominant race is intensely interesting, as voiced by Mr. Hamilton.

"The establishment of a republic
in China was the worst possible mistake," said he. "The Chinese are and never will be ready for that form of government. Like the Indian, the African and the Malay, they have been and must be ruled by force. You Americans will make a great mistake
if you ever grant the Filipinos independence."

He also voiced the amazement of the commerce-seeking Englishman at the people of this country, who allowed President Roosevelt to "force"
the treaty of Portsmouth, between the Japanese and the Russians. American interests were argued to be entirely with the Russian and against the Japanese, who have little standing in the estimation of the war correspondent. He paid a glowing tribute to the wonderful development of the Philippines under American rule, although that development had meant a hard blow at British commerce at Hongkong.

All of this summarizes the British view of world politics. The supremacy of the Caucasian, the protection of commerce, and the perpetuation of both, even at the expense of a few lives that sooner or later must end, anyway.

SAY IT BRAVELY DON'T THINK IT ASHAMEDLY

There are people who do not worry about how bad a condition is, provided it isn't mentioned.

Can a thing be too bad to speak of without being too bad to be?

And if it's too bad to be, how can it be cleansed unless someone has the courage to speak of it?

When the good citizen says,
"Hush! Don't mention that damnable thing," he plays right into the hands of the man who maintains and profits by the evil thing itself. That's the slogan of the panderer. "Hush!
Let us alone." So, with the good people saying hush, and the bad people saying hush, a city can rot its heart out in tranquility.

A certain false modesty of clean folk has been a powerful ally of the class that knows no modesty, but we are getting away from this folly. Recently a great publisher made the statement that "anything that is fit to happen is fit to print." If it is printed as a warning, or to compel a remedy, or for its general moral effect, this publisher was probably right. Publicity is the one great weapon with which to destroy vice.
Modesty is a molly-coddle.

A United Brethren pastor at Keister, Minn., has been indicted for arson. Ministers of the gospel should confine themselves to preaching
about fire and brimstone.

The cabinet members may be given
the right to speak in the senate.
Why not give the vice president a chance, too?

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

It's a Cinch
He tips his hat politely as he helps
her on the car,
And finds a seat for her, it matters
not how scarce they are.
He sits right straight through every show and never tries to slide Out of his seat between the acts to buy a clove outside.

He asks her if she would object if he enjoyed a smoke.
When she approaches with a "tough"
he never says he's broke.
He doesn't go out evenings, for he doesn't care to roam.
He wears his smoking jacket all the time that he's at home.
He treats her as politely as he'd treat a neighbor's wife;
He couldn't let a swear word out,
not even to save his life.

He hangs his clothes up carefully
and simply dotes on style.
He has no slouchy manners and he always wears a smile.
He doesn't growl about hard times
or quarrel with his food.
He's simply shocked at everything that savors of the rude.
He gets home from his office on the minute every day,
And there is no attraction that can make him stay away.

His household etiquette is great and life is one sweet song.
Yes, gentle reader, it's a cinch they've not been married long.

Realistic Art
Howard Chandler Christy was giving a dinner one evening in honor of a number of famous artists. Frivolity prevailed and soon the conversation turned to art.

Said one of them: "The other day
I painted a little dead board in imitation of marble with such accuracy
that on being thrown into the water
it immediately sank to the bottom."
"Faugh!" said another. "Yesterday I hung my thermometer on the easel supporting my view of the polar regions. It fell at once twenty degrees below freezing point."

"All that is nothing," remarked
the third artist in conclusion. "My portrait of a prominent New York millionaire was so lifelike that it had to be shaved twice a week."—Lippincott's.

Visible Means of Support
It is a sharp emergency that can catch Pat, even when he is ignorant and ragged. An Irishman whose garments were in tatters was brought before a magistrate on the charge that he was a vagrant, with no visible means of support. Pat drew from the pocket of his torn coat a loaf of bread, the half of a dry codfish and several cold potatoes. These he spread upon the stand before him and coolly asked: "What do you think of this, yer honor? Shure, an'
isn't this visible means of support?"—Exchange.

"What did you operate on the man

"I know," said the student.
"I mean, what did the man have?"
"Three hundred dollars," replied
the surgeon.—Lippincott's.

Not Even Stage Money Agent—Then we'll consider that settled?
Actor—But—er—what about the contract?
Agent—Oh, that's all right. A verbal contract'll do.
Actor—Laddie, listen. The last time I had a verbal contract I drew a verbal salary.—London Opinion.

Lady Baltimore Cake

The Most Popular Cake This Season
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

This is considered by many cooking authorities the finest cake that can be made, though in reality it is not at all difficult.

K C Lady Baltimore Cake
One cup butter; 2 cups granulated sugar; 1 cup milk; 1 teaspoonful rose water; 3/4 cups flour; 3 level teaspoon-fuls K C Baking Powder; whites of 6
eggs, beaten dry.

Cream the butter and beat in the sugar
gradually. Sift together, three times, the flour and baking powder, and add to the butter and sugar alternately with the milk and rose water. Lastly, add the egg whites. Bake in three-layer cake pans. Put the layers together with the following frosting.

Frosting for Lady Baltimore Cake
Three cups granulated sugar; 1 cup boiling water; whites of 3 eggs; 1 cup chopped nuts; 1 cup chopped nut-meats; 5 figs cut in thin slices.

Stir the sugar and water until the sugar is dissolved, then let boil without stirring until the syrup from a spoon will spin a long thread; pour upon the whites of the eggs, beaten dry, beating constantly meanwhile. Continue the beating until the frosting is cold; add
the fruit and spread upon the cake.

The K C Cook's Book contains ninety just such delicious recipes—bread, muffins, cakes and pastry. You can secure a copy free by sending the certificate tucked in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JACOBS MFG. CO., Chicago. Small cans do not contain Cook's book certificate.

The Just and The Unjust

By Vaughan Kester

The Prodigal Judge

The judge turned to Shrimplin.
"Will you tell him this, Shrimplin, the first time you see him?"
"Won't I?" said the little lamplighter. "Certainly, Judge—certainly!" and his agile fancy had already clothed the message in verbage that should terrify the delinquent Joe.

"Very well, then; but beyond giving him a word of advice and warning, I can do nothing."
A night or two later, as the judge,
who had spent the evening at Colonel Harrison's, came to his own gate, he saw a slouching figure de-facing itself from the shadows near his front door and advance to meet him midway of the graveled path that led to the street. It was Joe Montgomery.

"Well, my man!" said the judge,
with some little show of sternness.
"I suppose you received my message?"

Montgomery uncovered his shock
of red hair, while his bulk of bone
and muscle actually trembled in the presence of the small but awesome figure confronting him. He might have crushed the judge with a blow of his huge fist, but no possible provocation could have induced him to lay hands on Nellie's powerful ally.

"That skunk Shrimplin says my old woman's been here," he faltered, "poisonin' your mind agin me!" A sickly grin relaxed his heavy jaws. "The Lord only knows what she expects of a man—I dunno!
The more I try, the worse she gets; nothin' satisfies her!"

His breath, reeking of whisky, reached the judge.

"This is all very well, Montgomery, but I have a word or two to say to you—come into the house."

He led his disreputable visitor
into the library, turned up the gas,
and intrenched himself on the hearth-rug with his back to the fire.
The handy-man had kept near the door leading into the hall.

"Come closer!" commanded the judge, and Montgomery, hat in hand, advanced a step. "I wish to warn you, Montgomery, that if you persist in your present course, it is certain to bring its own consequences," began the judge.

"Sure, boss!" Joe faltered ab-jectly.

"I understand from Nellie that you have practically deserted your family," continued the judge.

"Ain't she hateful?" cried Joe,
shaking his great head.

"When she married you, she had a right to expect you would not turn out the scoundrel you are proving yourself."

"Boss, that's so," agreed Montgomery.

"This won't do!" said the judge briskly. "Nellie says she doesn't see you from one week's end to another; that you have money and yet contribute nothing toward her support nor the support of your family."

"I am willin' to go home, Judge," said Montgomery, fingering his cap with clumsy hands. He took a step nearer the slight figure on the hearth-rug and dropped his voice to a husky half maudlin whisper.
"He won't let me see—I'm a nigger slave to him! I know I got a wife—I know I got a family, but he says—no! He says, 'Joe, you damned old sot, you'll go home with a few drinks inside your freckled hide
and begin to shoot off your mouth,
and there'll be hell to pay for all of us!'"

"He? What are you saying—who won't let you go home?" demanded
the judge.

"Andy Gilmore; he afraid my old woman will get it out of me. I tell him I'm a married man but he says,
'No, you old soak, you stay here!'"

"What has Andy Gilmore to do with whether you go home or not?"
inquired the judge.

"It's him and Marsh," said the handy-man. "They bully me till I'm that rattled—"

"Marsh—do you mean my son, Marshall?" interrupted the judge.

"Yes, boss—"

"I don't understand this!" said
the judge after a moment of silence. "Why should Mr. Gilmore or my son wish to keep you away from your wife?"

"It's just a notion of theirs," replied Montgomery with sudden drunken loyalty. "And I'll say this—money never come so easy—and stuff to drink! Andy's got it scattered all about the place; there ain't many bars in this here town stocked up like his room!"

The judge devoted a moment to a close scrutiny of his caller.

"You are some sort of a relative of Mr. Gilmore's, are you not?" he asked at length.

"We're cousins, boss—"

"Why does he wish to keep you away from your family?" the judge spoke after another brief pause.

"It's my old woman," and Montgomery favored the judge with a drunken leer. "Suppose I was to go home full, what's to hinder her from gettin' things out of me? I'm a talker, drunk or sober, and Andy Gilmore knows it—that's what he's afraid of."

"What have you to tell that could affect Mr. Gilmore? Do you refer to the gambling that is supposed to go on in his rooms? If so,
he is at needless pains in the matter. Mr. Moxlow will take up his case as soon as the North trial is out of the way."

Montgomery started, took a forward step, and dropping his voice to an impressive whisper, said:

Attention, Husbands
An Evanston woman has made a wonderful invention and she hasn't protected by patent or copyright, so it is now available for everybody.
Listen to it:

A friend of hers was calling the other day and she said:
"How do you know when your husband forgets to mail the letters
you gave him in the morning?"

"Oh, that's easy. I always put a card addressed to myself in the bunch. If I don't receive that card on the next day I know that he has been delinquent. A I can prove it on him. And it only costs a cent!"

Woman's Beauty Is Based on Health

To Have Health, Bowel Movement is Absolutely Necessary—How Best to Obtain It

If woman's beauty depended upon cosmetics every woman would be a picture of loveliness. But beauty lies deeper than that. It lies in health.
In the majority of cases the basis of health, and the cause of sickness,
can be traced to the action of the bowels.

The headaches, the lassitude, the sallow skin and the lusterless eyes are usually due to constipation. So many things that women do habitually conduce to this trouble. They do not eat carefully, they eat indigestible foods because the foods are served daintily and they do not exercise enough. But whatever the particular cause may be it is important that the condition should be corrected.

An ideal remedy for women, and one especially suited to their delicate requirements, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of women endorse highly. Mrs.

FORGOTTEN

By EDNA HERRON

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate
"No more Cornville for me—the city life and freedom and—!" Her voice faltered the least bit but it was enough to take advantage of, Arthur Bain said quickly.

"And what else? Failure. You are not fitted to make your living in the city. You have a good home and friends and all you know is to entertain and be your own sweet self among them. What else? Regret, Elsie Manning, for leaving all this and placing yourself where you ought not to be."

"Never!" Elsie tossed her head defiantly. "No failure, no regret for me. I'll succeed and I'll thank my stars in future years that I broke away from a little burg and lived my own life." Arthur regarded her with real concern in his honest eyes. Was this gentle little Elsie—his Elsie?

"Do you remember the promise you made me—have you forgotten that afternoon on the hillside—our hillside?"

Elsie broke in quickly, startled by a husky note in his voice that she had never heard before.

"I remember, of course, Arthur, but I want to forget—I mean to forget—all the hillside and valleys, too, and the old weather beaten church and the postoffice and—"

"And me, Elsie?"

"I want to remember you always as a friend—!" she began bravely.

"No!" She didn't know Arthur could speak like that or look like that!

She trembled a little, but her determination did not waver. She stood looking up into his blue eyes which just now had a look of steel.

"No," Arthur repeated. "My life is here. Your place is here, but since you choose to forget the promise you made me and all the things that make up life to me, then forget me, too. Good-bye!"

"Why, Arthur, you'll come to say good-bye?"

"Good-bye," he repeated, "and good luck to you," and this new Arthur walked swiftly down the path without turning his head.

It had never been such a beautiful morning. Elsie thought as she continued her packing after Arthur's departure. The sun streamed through the windows and lit up her bright hair and warmed her sunny features. It was early spring and the sweet odor of peach and cherry blossoms was wafted to her on the breeze. She smiled for pure happiness.

What did she say she wanted? Life and freedom? Life, yet, but freedom was hers now in a measure. There was none to say her nay. She and her mother had lived in their own little home until her mother died. The little house was still hers. It was to be shut up just as it was while the daughter went to the city to win a fortune. Friends she had in plenty, and Arthur she knew was fond and true. But as a part of the life she was leaving she must forget him. He himself had said so.

Forget Arthur! How strange the spoken words sounded to her ears. Why, she had known Arthur always—

But friends came in to chatter and disturb her thoughts. Packing was endless. So many little things had been forgotten, so many things to do, good-byes to be said, advice to listen to, that all thought of Arthur was driven from her mind.

Evening came. Her chums had all gone home. Her packing was done. The last little task was completed, and the two little trunks were strapped and ready for the morning. At 7 in the morning Old Jake Morse would bundle them to the depot. Her little house would be locked up, she would take a last look at Cornville, climb aboard the train and all her dreams come true.

Somehow, sitting alone in the little parlor in the somber twilight, these thoughts did not cheer. The joyful anticipation did not come. A vague dread took its place. After awhile she wandered restlessly out to the kitchen, and from force of habit stood looking up the village street. No familiar figure swung down the path. It was his hour, but he was not to come. She was to forget him and be herself forgotten.

Oh—be forgotten. She hadn't thought of that. A queer little catch in her throat came for a moment. Be forgotten! Yes, surely, if she wished to forget Cornville and all that be-

Major Thomas L. Rhoades, President Wilson's aid, has been appointed to take charge of the rehabilitation of the stricken city of Dayton, Ohio.

MAKE YOUR OWN
HAIR STAIN

This Homemade Mixture Darkens Gray Hair and Makes it Soft and Glossy

To a half pint of water add:
Bay Rum 1 oz.
Barbo Compound a small box
Glycerine 1/4 oz.
These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

WANT SCHOOLS OUT OF CITY POLITICS

Milwaukeeans Argue in Favor of Their Plan Before Assembly Committee

MADISON, Wis., April 4.—(Special.)—The Milwaukee school board's plan of separating the city's school administration from the general city government was fought out before the assembly education committee Wednesday afternoon, the city administration, by Assistant City Attorney Timlin, opposing it and members of the school board, urging its enactment. Directors Pieplow, Richardson and Augustine supported it in speeches. Superintendent Pearce worked for it also.

Explains Reasons
Director Richardson explained the reasons back to the plan at present. He said the city charges the board rent for its rooms in the city hall, taxes it for removal of ashes from school houses, for water rents, taxes, and other debts. The board wants to control its own fund. He said the board needs a special attorney for its own work relative to contracts and bonds, condemnation, etc., inasmuch as the city attorney's office is too busy to give to school matters the attention which the board thinks is deserved by the importance of the work. The bill provides for a school architect and a commissioner of buildings who shall be a practical builder. It is proposed to provide a mill tax for erecting school buildings to relieve the bond situation, which Mr. Richardson said would increase the city's general bond issuing possibilities.

"This bill will give Milwaukee as near an ideal school law as it is possible to get," declared Mr. Richardson. "It is not a violent separation of our school matters from our general city government."

Emphasizes Need
Director Augustus said the need of the board's control of its school fund was emphasized by the situation wherein the schools are made to pay for rent, etc., while the board is not allowed to receive the premiums earned on school bonds and is forced to pay any deficit arising when bonds are sold below par. The fact that children formerly were housed in barracks was cited as one of the results of politics in school affairs.

"Education should not be hampered or embarrassed by city politics," he said.

Assistant City Attorney Timlin said that the bill is not right in theory, for if carried to its logical extreme it would provide a separate department for the fire or police department, absolutely independent of the city government. This would open the way to the establishment of forty or more distinct governments within the city, he said. He maintained the school directors did not understand the city's financial affairs from the standpoint of men who see the whole administration as a unit else they would not have planned so radical a departure. He also criticized the bill as being loosely drawn, and said he believed it would prove to be unconstitutional.

INVESTIGATE CHARGE AGAINST SENATOR

ALBAONY, N. Y., April 4.—Development came fast today in the legislative bribery scandal growing out of the charges brought by George H. Kendall, president of the New York Bank Note company, against State Senator Stephen J. Stillwell. Following the decision of the democrats to have an open trial before the judiciary committee, Stillwell resigned from his place on the committee and was excused from further attendance in the senate until the case is settled. Attorney General Carmody served notice on the telegraph companies to be prepared to submit all telegrams transmitted between New York and Albany during March and a thorough probe is promised into the charge that Stillwell demanded $3,500 to have the bill for incorporation of stock exchanges reported from committee. The judiciary committee of the senate will take evidence in the matter, but will leave the decision as to action that will be taken to a vote of the entire senate.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFULLY DARKENS THE HAIR WHEN FADED AND GRAY

Mixed with Sulphur Makes Hair Soft, Lustrous and Cures Dandruff

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—

you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. O. T. Erhart, agent.

VAN HISE DEFENDS BOARD OF REGENTS

MADISON, Wis., April 4.—President Charles R. Van Hise and other representatives of the University of Wisconsin on Thursday absolutely denied at a hearing before the assembly committee on the Judson Hall regent election bill that there was any politics in the university or the board of regents.

"It's a lie and has not a shred of fact on which to stand," vehemently declared President Van Hise in denying that there was politics in the university.

"I defy any man to bring forward the shadow of a fact on which to base such a charge," he continued. "A university would not be worth its salt if it did not give expert advice and help to the state when called on to do so. Neither the president nor members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin have organized a group of men to support any candidate for public office."

Samuel Warren's Vanity. The vanity of Samuel Warren, the author of "Ten Thousand a Year," in his early years of authorship at least, was remarkable, and there is a story told of him to the effect that on one occasion at a friend's house he had to take down to dinner a lady whom he had not met before and as soon as they were seated at table asked her if she had ever heard of Samuel Warren. "Oh, certainly," was the reply. "My husband prefers Warren's blacking to any other. We always use it."—Westminster Gazette.

LAST SOCIALISTIC ADDRESS TONIGHT

Miss Caroline Lowe, Noted Woman Orator, Will Close the Course Here

BELIEVES IN EQUALITY OF SEX

Has Represented Interests of Working Woman; Experience Fitted Her for Platform

Miss Caroline A. Lowe, Kansas City, Mo., will deliver an address on "The Socialistic Movement" tonight in the old Y. M. C. A. hall. This will be the last of a series of five lectures that have been given here, under the auspices of the lyceum branch of the socialistic party. Lectures throughout the country that are given by the socialistic party are self supporting, admission being given free to those supporting socialist journals, the newspapers being the main financial support of the party.

Large Attendance. From the first lecture to the last one, the attendance has been fairly large, comfortably filling the hall each night. The four speakers preceding Miss Lowe have all been at one time laborers, and among the ranks of those who work with their hands, and have shown in their address that they have at heart the interest of the workingman. Their addresses have been largely for pointing out ways for his betterment.

Miss Lowe first thought of socialism while a teacher in the public schools of Kansas. She became a public speaker, helping with the campaign work in 1908 and has contributed largely to the success of the movement wherever she has been heard.

Correspondent of Committee.

Two years ago Miss Lowe was made general correspondent of the woman's national committee of the socialistic party, and was placed in charge of the woman's department of the national office. In this great educational work Miss Lowe has had much valuable experience. She has directed literary campaigns, managed the lecture tours of other distinguished women, and contributed much toward realizing in the socialist party that absolute equality in her sex which is one of the general tenets of the socialist movement.

In 1911 she was selected as one of the women best qualified to represent the interests of the working-class woman when the question of suffrage came up before the judiciary committee of the United States congress.

Miss Lowe is a young woman of charming personality and convincing earnestness. Experience and training have especially fitted her to speak with intimate knowledge of what the socialist movement is accomplishing.

Wales at the Bat.

In one of George Meredith's letters, written in the sixties, he relates that "when the Prince of Wales was in Ireland he came to the viceregal lodge and played cricket. C. warned all the opposition bowlers that royal patronage of the manly game depended on Prins getting at least one run, having missed while fielding two fine smacks-into-the-hand catches. Wales goes on and faces an unnamed, steady, determined Briton of a bowler, round, ruddy—an inevitable creature, one clearly selected by the gods to do this black business with the utmost satisfaction and comfort. Down went the wicket of your Prins at the first delivery of ball!"—London Chronicle.

CLEMENTS FREED OF SPEED CHARGE

Chauffeur Found Not Guilty by Jury; Witnesses Unable to Gauge Speed of Car

Cash Clements, chauffeur for the Parker-Hirt Machine company, arrested on a charge of speeding, was found not guilty by a jury in Police Justice Edward Cronon's court late yesterday. The case being the first one tried before a jury attracted considerable interest and a large crowd attended the hearing. Patrolmen Alois Yehle and Frank Groeschner and two other witnesses testified that Clements traveled three blocks in a minute and a half or two minutes and in every case they said they believed the chauffeur was going at least twenty-five miles an hour.

Attorney Fred Hartwell, for the defendant, proved his client innocent by the very testimony offered by the prosecution, showing that at the rate of three blocks in a minute and a half he was going about twelve miles an hour, three miles less than allowed by the speed ordinance. The jury, Ed Newburg, Ludwig Kroner, Frank Mader, John George, Mike Kratchwill and D. Jehlen were out but a few minutes when they returned their verdict.

NEGRO WOMEN TO JOIN

ST. LOUIS, April 4.—That Mrs. Victoria Clay Haley, the negro woman whose attendance at the Mississippi Valley Suffrage congress caused considerable commotion among the delegates, is the personal representative of Mrs. Booker T. Washington, became known today. Her presence indicated that a national suffrage movement among negro women is to be started at once and that Missouri is to be the starting point. The reason for this, Mrs. Haley explained, is that the Missouri women, in their recent fight for suffrage, lost because they refused to accept a clause which would bar negro women from the vote.

ARREST MAN AFTER TWO YEARS PURSUIT

Detective Agency with the Help of the Dictagraph Fastens Murder on W. J. Leehan

ALLEGED TO HAVE SLAIN WOMAN

Stoutley Denies All Knowledge of Crime when the Arrest Is Made

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 4.—After two years of crafty and relentless work by a detective agency, in the course of which the dictagraph played a star part, Joseph Moriarty, alias William J. Leehan, a stenographer formerly employed in the home of Mrs. E. M. Horne of Pittsburgh, is in jail today charged with the murder of Mrs. Charles L. Turner of Lakewood in April, 1911.

Leehan was lured from New York to Fort Lee, N. J., last night by detectives whom he had thought his intimate friends, and arrested by Sheriff Tilton. He paled and staggered when placed under arrest but denied any knowledge of the murder. Judge Searing of Toms River, issued the warrant charging murder.

Leehan Disappears Mrs. Turner was murdered in Pine Needle lane near here. Leehan and his family disappeared from Lakewood a few weeks later. His disappearance reawakened the investigation and detectives finally found Leehan in jail in New York for wife beating. He was trailed to White Plains, N. Y., and a dictagraph installed in his apartment and connected with rooms next door, where detectives watched and listened for weeks.

The Leeheans moved several times to different parts of White Plains, but the detectives always followed and found chances to install the dictagraphs. Miss Helen C. Schindler, the chief detective's sister, was used in one of the places where the Leeheans lived and reported conversations of importance in the case.

Refriends Detective Leehan was finally caught off his guard and made friends with one of the operatives, who represented himself as a young fellow from the country who wanted to start a skating rink.

It was through this detective that Leehan was lured to Fort Lee.

URGES SUPPORT OF WILSON'S POLICIES

Senator La Follette Declares Present Is No Time to Be Playing Politics

MADISON, Wis., April 4.—That it is the duty of all progressives, whether allied with republicans or democrats, to support every progressive policy advocated by the present administration, and that the present is no time for political campaigning for 1916, is the declaration of Senator "Bob" La Follette, in the leading editorial in La Follette's Magazine, issued today.

The editorial says in part: "Governor Wilson gave to New Jersey a progressive administration. He comes to the presidency of this nation with a limited experience in public life, but with the confidence of the American people that he will deal with the existing evils seriously and fearlessly in the public interest. ... If the Wilson administration offers legislation that will accomplish the desired results, then it is the duty of the minority to support that legislation. ... This is no time for trifling or playing politics."

BULL MOOSE IN "OFEN CAUCUS"

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Between 15 and 18 bull moose representatives in the Sixty-third congress were expected to attend the initial conference of the house progressives at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The "open door" policy will be invoked for the first time in caucus history in Washington. Receipt of a message from Colonel Roosevelt and nomination of Representative Murdock of Kansas for speaker was the program.

Tuesday the house legislative committee will hold a conference with the legislative committee of the national progressive party, when the tentative drafts of the proposed bills and the different phases of the legislation offered will be discussed. The national legislative committee comprises Walter Weyly, Gifford Pinchot, Jane Addams and Dean Lewis of the University of Pennsylvania.

This afternoon's "open caucus" was expected to draw a crowd of feminine "bull moose" as spectators. This will be the first time women have been permitted to view the workings of the "caucus" system. Next week's conferences will be actually participated in by the women.

PLEADS FOR HAWTHORNE WASHINGTON, April 4.—The first attempt to secure freedom for Julian Hawthorne, son of the noted author, Nathaniel Hawthorne, now serving a sentence of one year and a day in Atlanta, Ga., federal prison, for using the mails to defraud was made today. A sister of the prisoner, Sister Rosalie, a Roman Catholic nun, visited Secretary Tumulty and presented a petition to President Wilson for her brother's pardon.

highest ever known here. The north side is flooded from 3 to 10 feet deep.

The sustained flood has at last overtaken the relief measures and piteous appeals are coming in from Grand View, Leavenworth, Rockport, Teut City, Cannelton, Shawneetown and Uniontown.

Grand Reservoir Endangered ST. MARY'S, Ohio, April 4.—High western winds today again endangered the east bank of the Grand reservoir by dashing the water over the side. Men and teams have been working night and day since Wednesday hauling material to strengthen the bank. A company of militia is patrolling the reservoir today.

Columbus, List 85 COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 4.—With eighty-five bodies recovered and identified today, it seemed probable that the Columbus death list in the flood will reach 100 or more. Great quantities of debris remain to be searched. The salvage commission today was busily locating property swept away by the flood.

FIRST APPOINTMENT MEMBER OF BOARD

The first and, from a political standpoint, the most important appointment to be made by Ori J. Sorensen when he becomes mayor April 15, will be a member of the fire and police commission. G. M. Woodward's term as commissioner expires the last week in April and it is necessary to appoint his successor between the last Monday in April and the first Monday in May. It has been rumored that Mr. Sorensen may appoint Frank Kohn, proprietor of the Jefferson hotel, but Mr. Kohn said today that the matter has not been talked over with him. Efforts to locate Mr. Sorensen this afternoon failed and it was impossible to interview him on the subject.

FORMER RESIDENT
DIES IN CHEROKEE Friends of Martin Gilbertson, Sioux Falls, Iowa, a former resident of La Crosse and an employee of the Lund Land agency until eight years ago, were notified this afternoon of his sudden death in Cherokee, Iowa. Gilbertson was walking on the street and suddenly fell over dead. He is survived by a wife and two children in Sioux Falls.

THE CAMEO

The quaint, old-fashioned cameo that our grandmothers used to wear in pins, brooches, etc., are very popular just now.

People are beginning to appreciate the beauty of the cameo, so, naturally, they are being made into a great many beautiful and useful things. They are especially attractive with a combination of seed pearls, which bring out the rich coloring of the cameo.

Among other things in cameos we are showing the stick pin, the brooch and the pendant.

MOTHER'S APPEAL OFFENDS M'KENNA

Letter from Parent of the American Girl Jailed for Militancy Hurts Diplomats Dignity

REFUSES EVEN TO ANSWER NOTE

English Home Secretary Will Pay No Attention to Mrs. Emerson's Plea

LONDON, April 4.—The appeal "for God's sake," appearing in a letter written to Home Secretary Reginald McKenna, by the mother of Miss Zelle Emerson, the Michigan suffragette, said to be critically ill in Holloway jail, so offended the cabinet minister that he not only declined to release Miss Emerson but refused to answer Mrs. Emerson's appeal.

Offended McKenna The mother learned this today from Secretary Laughlin of the American embassy. He told Mrs. Emerson that her "undiplomatic language" in appealing to McKenna for "God's sake save my daughter," offended the home secretary and hindered rather than helped her daughter's chances for liberty.

Visibly angry, Mrs. Emerson rushed in a taxicab to the home office and demanded a permit for her own physician to see Miss Emerson in Holloway jail.

Miss Zelle Emerson, an ardent American suffragette, came to London to study conditions and immediately became the close friend of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of the convicted leader. She was with Miss Pankhurst on two occasions when both were arrested for window smashing, following the government's withdrawal of the franchise reform bill. At the time of the last arrest, both Miss Pankhurst and Miss Emerson fought and kicked the policemen who arrested them and both were sent to Holloway jail. They "hungry struck" and were forcibly fed.

Both Became Ill Both young women became ill, and Miss Pankhurst finally was released, only to go into a private hospital in danger of blindness from the tortures of jail feeding. Miss Emerson, too, was said to be very ill from forcible feeding, and appeals were made to the home office for her discharge but they were in vain.

MONTENEGRO GIVES DEFI TO POWERS

King Nicholas Determined to Make Scutari His Capital Regardless of All Europe

CETTINJE, April 4.—"Scutari will be my future capital," King Nicholas of Montenegro is quoted as saying in an interview today. "We intend to take Scutari and keep it."

In continuing the siege of Scutari, which the Montenegrins began soon after the Balkan alliance declared war against Turkey last October, Montenegro is defying Austria-Hungary in an international naval blockade off the coast of the diminutive kingdom.

"We are fighting against poverty for our existence," the king said. "Our national life is at stake. You cannot grow grain on rocks; Montenegro has tried it long enough to know."

"Ours is a struggle against starvation and death, and it is better to die fighting than to go on living as we are now. We must have Scutari."

FLOOD DANGER GROWS

NOON REPORTS FROM WAUSAU INDICATE THAT LAST NIGHT'S RAIN HAS INCREASED PERIL

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 4.—Fragmentary reports received at noon today from Wausau, Wis., indicated that the danger of a serious flood there is increasing. Last night's torrential rain, it was said, had further swollen the Big Rib river and the lowlands in the vicinity of Wausau were reported inundated.

Telephone advices said the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad had established a "passenger portage" and was taking its passengers and mail from train to train in boats because the bridge across the Big Rib was considered unsafe.

Police officials said it might be necessary to dynamite the debris that has floated against the bridge and formed a natural dam, because the rising water threatened to work a serious hardship to farmers in the country up the river.

CUB BOSS IN A FIGHT AIM FOR HARMONY IN TARIFF DRAFT

EVERS HAS MIX-UP WITH TRAIN-ER SEMMENS ON TRAIN AND DOC QUILTS JOB

CHICAGO, April 4.—Ample proof that the Chicago National league club is in fighting condition was given just before the aggregation of ball tossers alighted in their home town this morning. Before the train had slowed down, Manager Johnny Evers and Trainer Doc Semmens engaged in a fistful encounter in which Evers received two blows in the face. Heinie Zimmerman and Ed Reulbach surrounded the combatants before the fight was really well under way. As a consequence the Cubs are without a trainer, Semmens having immediately handed in his resignation. He declares he will accept an offer from the Cincinnati Reds.

Semmens claims the manager has continually nagged him during the training trip and had accused him of failing to obey an order. This was followed by an epithet, according to Semmens and he resented it with a straight left to the jaw.

Evers admits hurling the epithet but claims Semmens was ready to quit anyway and was only looking for a chance to get away.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Final endeavors to complete a "harmony tariff bill," one backed by President Wilson and senate and house democratic leaders in all its revision features, were made today.

Democrats of the senate finance committee met to pore over the Underwood tariff draft. Underwood conferred with President Wilson, after a conference with the ways and means committee.

The house leader said today that he hoped to bring out a bill Monday which will be approved by the senate and house. Wool and sugar were the obstacles to the harmony program today. President Wilson will have the "last say" regarding these items.

BINGLES FROM THE TRAINING CAMP

RICHMOND, Va., April 4.—Another good practice game was expected by the Giants today when they lined up against the Richmond team. McGraw, who has jumped into the fray several times lately, did not expect to don his uniform as he is still suffering from a sprained ankle.
NEW YORK, April 4.—Like a bunch of school boys on a picnic the Highlanders pranced out on the Polo grounds today and limbered up in their first practice game at home. Tomorrow they will meet the Brooklyn Nationals at Ebbitt's new ball lot.
OKLAHOMA CITY, April 4.—Ed Walsh, who is bending every effort to round into form for the season's opening, will work out for five innings in today's game against the Omaha Western leaguers.

URBANA, Ill., April 4.—Jake Stahl was compelled to undergo a lot of "kidding" from his Boston Red Sox team mates today, just because he let a curly headed collegian from Mason, Ill., make him fan the air three times and retire in yesterday's game. Larson, the university twirler, held the Red Sox to six hits.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Manager Evers, Tommy Leach and all the veterans on the Cub squad, who arrived today from Kansas City, declared that the 1913 spring training trip of Murphy's men was the most successful in baseball history. Only the Indiana floods marred their exhibition schedule.
Cold, clammy weather greeted the team here and with it prospects that the contest with Indianapolis this afternoon will be set going before only a fair crowd.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 4.—Inability of Manager Jennings to learn from baseball officials at Cincinnati and Louisville the prospects of the exhibition games in those cities made the Tiger program for the next few days uncertain.
The Tiger boss was pleased today over the showing of Ed Willett, who worked against Chattanooga yesterday. Willett gave six hits in nine innings. The game went ten innings to a 1 to 1 tie.

RITCHIE TO MEET
JOE RIVERS NEXT

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 4.—Billy Nolan, manager of Willie Ritchie, the lightweight champion, who is appearing at a local theater this week, received a challenge for his protegee to meet the winner of the Leach Cross-Joe Rivers bout, which is scheduled to be fought before the St. Nicholas Athletic club in New York.
Following the receipt of the message, Nolan said Rivers likely would be the winner of the battle, and he authorized the statement that the Mexican probably would be the next man to meet the champion, although he wired the New York promoters that theatrical engagements will prevent Ritchie from signing article for a bout until July 4. Nolan says the Rivers-Ritchie battle, which he speaks of as practically an assured thing, probably will take place in Los Angeles.

Hal Sheridan Says Yanks
Will Do Well to Finish
Above the Sixth Place

By HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, April 4.—Quite a phenomenon is in the act of taking place in the midst of the national pastime. A tail end ball club—that is a tail end club from the year before—is returning from a training trip with more general interest attracted its way than the two pennant winners carry. We refer to the New York Yankees.
Through the individuality of one man—the newly appointed manager—this team is attracting widespread interest from coast to coast and vice versa as well as up and down the map. Probably a big wad of this interest lies in Frank Chance, the manager, but as Chance's fortune rests with the showing of his club the players also come in for a share of the earnest lamping.
Needless to say nine fanatics out of every nine are pulling for Chance to make good. One of the reasons is Frank Chance. The other is Charles Webb Murphy.

Chance's Chance
Where then, inquires the average reader, will the Yankees finish? Almost certainly out of last place, probably not any higher up than sixth. Chance has some good material to start with but two breaks of fortune are against him. One lies in the fact that his team is composed in good part of brittle talent—that is, talent easily wounded or hurt. This failing has stopped other teams in the past—notably the Cleveland Americans and the Phillies. The Yanks have too many people enrolled liable to injury and unless they can get over this shortcoming, as great a leader as Chance is, the odds will be against him. The other break of fortune comes from the hope that he must play his first 30 games against Boston, Philadelphia and Washington—the three strongest teams of his circuit. A good start means much to a team working from the rut but there's no great chance for a flying start against three clubs hot-foot after the pennant and keyed up to the top stride in speed.
Ritchie and McCarty
The main job now ahead in the fistie parade seems to be the act of getting the title holders back into the ring. It doesn't appear that much urging should be needed to entice the average pug into an hour's work for which he would receive from $10,000 to $15,000. Yet here we have Messrs. McCarty and Ritchie, two champions or championship claimants twisting and ducking sideways every time someone mentions a battle.

There are any number of fights under way but the two battles in whom the public is showing more interest and about whom there is more doubt as to the amount of stuff carried, are the only two of real consequence.
McCarte might defend his title against the field although many believe that Gunboat Smith or Jess Willard would have an even chance of upsetting him. But there's at least considerable doubt that Willie Ritchie will be champion after he finishes with Joe Rivers, or even any one of the three or four best of the lads anxious for a crack at his crown.
Bill Bernhard, the veteran pitcher, used to say that a ball player was worth as much in salary as he could get. On this theory most of the Chicago Cubs would be drawing 37 cents a month.

MORGAN ACCORDED MILITARY HONORS

Massed Bands Play Funeral March and Soldiers Present Arms as the Body Enters Ship

By WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMMS (Paris Correspondent of the United Press.)

HAVRE, April 4.—With all the military honors due a commander of the Legion of Honor, as well as the popular interest in the funeral of the world's greatest financier, the body of J. Pierpont Morgan arrived here by train today from Paris and was immediately transferred to the steamship La France which is scheduled to sail tomorrow for New York. The casket was placed in a specially prepared mortuary on "E" deck, hung in black velvet, with silver trimmings.

A battalion of the 129th French infantry was drawn up at the gang plank and ten stout men carried the massive box containing the four caskets incasing the body of the dead Morgan. The soldiers presented arms; the military salute for commanders of the legion was fired, and the massed military bands played Chopin's "Marche Funebre." The funeral march was followed by several American national hymns, including "Star Spangled Banner," and "America," and then the bands swung into the "Marseillaise."

The ceremony was a most impressive one. More than twenty thousand people crowded the quays to see the transfer of Morgan's body from train to ship and as the casket went over the side and the bands played, almost every head was uncovered.

SINGLE TAX IDEA TAKES BIG STEP

MADISON, Wis., April 4.—(Special.)—Great significance is being attached to the assembly's action yesterday in adopting the Gullickson joint resolution permitting the legislature to authorize local communities to exempt certain classes of property from taxation. There is no denying its ultimate end, which is the single tax. It was supported in a clear-cut single tax speech on the floor by Assemblyman Edward Norman of Langlade county, the outspoken exponent of single tax doctrine in the legislature, who was elected on a single tax platform. He made no pretense of advocating the resolution under any other guise than that of an advocate of the plan of Henry George, and the fact that the resolution was adopted by a vote of 43 to 30 is a plain indication that the majority of those present were not averse to Wisconsin's venturing upon new ground in the solution of the taxation problem.

SECOND CHOICE FOR ELECTIONS?

MADISON, Wis., April 4.—(Special.)—Second choice at the November general election, as well as at primary elections, is the purpose of a measure introduced by Assemblyman L. L. Johnson. The measure is calculated to encourage individual rather than straight party voting. The proposed law applies the primary second choice law to general elections and if passed, it is said, will do away with the use of the voting machines.

CAUGHT UNDER CAR

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 4.—Caught in an April shower, two women and two children crawled beneath a freight car for protection, but met death and injury. Noise of the storm drowned the approach of a switch engine which bumped the car. Mrs. Sarah Boyer was crushed to death and her sister, Mrs. Amelia Boyer, injured by the brake beam; but not before she had thrown the two children of her dead sister from beneath the car.

SPOTLIGHTS

BEVERLY

When George Barr McCutcheon's "Beverly" is presented at the La Crosse Theater on Saturday, April 5 matinee and night, local playgoers will have an opportunity of enjoying one of the most delightful romantic plays of a decade, which has been favorably received in Buffalo, Toronto, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Chicago, and is now in its fourth successful year under Mr. A. G. Delamater's management. "Beverly" is a dramatization of Mr. McCutcheon's story "Beverly of Graustark," by Robert M. Baker, who has adhered very closely to the story contained in the book with the result that he has succeeded admirably in retaining the atmosphere of the delightful little principal.

THE BOHEMIAN GIRL

At the La Crosse Theater the Aborn Opera company's spectacular production of "The Bohemian Girl" announced as exactly the same in every particular as last season, will be presented on Sunday, April 6, matinee and night. Unceasing efforts at improvement has been the policy of the Aborn Opera company for many years. Opera and theatergoers generally are beginning to appreciate that the Aborn stamp means excellence in the fullest sense of the word. This massive and realistic production of Balfe's great masterpiece proved one of the unusually few really big successes of the past season, its appeal not only extending to the lover of music "worth while" but to all who enjoy magnificent stage pictures beautifully scened, and novel incidental features. Messrs. Aborn are said to have devoted much care to the selection of the present cast of grand opera soloists, and are convinced that they have in this organization the best cast and chorus ever brought together in any of their previous productions. An entirely new production on the same mammoth lines, with all its realistic interpolations including the great Fair and Gypsy camp scenes, the wonderful whirlwind acrobats, trained horses, and the ballet "The Dance of the Hours" in the famous Marble Hall scene of the last act, and much more will be presented. A special orchestra is a notable addition this season.

The robber came out second best in the encounter and fled, leaving shreds of his coat.

MISS B. THOMPSON

CAN'T DECIDE TO RECOGNIZE CHINA

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The question of the recognition of the Chinese republic is still far from definite settlement, according to an authoritative statement from the white house yesterday afternoon. The president and Secretary of State Bryan are still in communication with the various representatives of the foreign powers regarding the recognition, and hope to have a definite declaration from all within a short time. Action has been delayed because of the failure of the Chinese provisional government to elect a permanent president and formulate a constitutional government for China. President Wilson has been assured from Peking that this relation would soon be met.

WAUSAU DISTRICT HAS HIGH WATER

WAUSAU, Wis., April 4.—Heavy rains at head waters and along the valley of Big Rib river have changed the stream into a torrent of madly rushing waters, inundating lowlands and bringing great quantities of flood trash and logs into Lake Wausau.

Little Rib river is also very high, and both are rising. The Wisconsin river here is almost at flood stage and slowly rising. If the predicted rain comes on Friday, melting the deep snow in the woods north of Tomahawk and Eagle River the situation may become serious. All along the river the gates in dams are open to allow quick passage of water, and all possible precautions are being taken against damage.

Kindergarten Criticism.

The other night a pantomime comedian was in the course of delivering one of the long and not always uniformly funny soliloquies for which he is famed when there came in a lull an unexpected comment from the stalls. It was in the high treble voice of a girl child, and the words, audible on stage and in several parts of the auditorium, were, "Mummy, I wouldn't mind if they pulled down the blind now." It was dramatic criticism of a dramatic kind, and perhaps the outspoken child was not the only person in the house who would have had no objection to a dropping of the curtain.

CLASSIFY PATIENTS AT WAUPUN ASYLUM

MADISON, Wis., April 4.—(Special.)—A complete classification of all persons who may be committed to the hospital for the criminal insane at Waupun is outlined in a bill which has just been sent to the senate by the committee on education and public welfare. According to the terms of the substitute, the institution shall be used for the custody and special treatment of persons who have been convicted of a criminal offense and who have become insane while in the state prison, reformatory, or other correctional institution; persons accused of crime but found not guilty upon a plea of insanity; persons accused of crime but not tried because of insanity; and "persons who because of suicidal or homicidal tendencies are dangerous to themselves or others."

The direct management of the institution is vested in the board of control, which shall appoint a superintendent and steward. All other officers and employees shall be appointed by the superintendent, subject to the approval of the board. The number of employees shall be designated by the board, but the superintendent is empowered to fix the salaries of all employees under his management.

Turning Them Away.

A prominent New York suffragette detests the male flirt.

At a luncheon in Newport a male flirt sneered at woman suffrage.

"Woman doesn't want a vote; she wants a husband," he said.

"Nonsense," said the suffragette. "It's a fact," the flirt continued. "The way the average woman worships man is amazing. Why, I myself have turned about fifty women's heads."

"Away from you?" said the lady.—Exchange

OFFICER REPORTS RELIEF PROGRESS

Major T. T. Rhoades Tells Garrison of Prompt Sanitary Work in Dayton, Ohio

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The first comprehensive dispatch from Major T. T. Rhoades in charge of sanitation and medical relief work in the flooded territory, was received by Secretary of War Garrison yesterday.

Rhoades said in Dayton persons are cleaning their houses as rapidly as possible and all the sewers are in operation. The water supply has also been placed in working order and furnished a sufficient quantity to meet all demands. Rhoades stated that he had recommended the two big market sections to be cleaned up promptly so the farmers could help solve the flood problem.

"Since the generous action of the war department, through Major Normoyle, in furnishing rations, the confidence of the people has been restored in this line," he said. "I do not think that the situation here was understood properly and believe we can get along all right at present."

Small hospitals that were established earlier are being abandoned or being concentrated in several large asylums.

"There is not a great amount of sickness," Rhoades reported. "But thirty scattered cases of diphtheria, some measles and scarlet fever, and possibly intestinal diseases which may develop later on led me to request the establishment here of a field hospital. We are short of medical supplies but this can be met promptly. The sanitary department is well organized for efficient work."

Rhoades declared it will take three months to thoroughly clean up the flood area.

KILLS HIMSELF IN IMAGINED ATTACK

BISMARCK, N. D., April 4.—Awakening in the night and imagining that neighbors with whom he had repeatedly quarreled were about to attack him, Aaron Baroney of Wing, this county, reached for his rifle, which he kept near his bed, and in drawing it toward him shot and mortally wounded himself.

Such is the belief of the county officers who investigated his death after the finding of his body yesterday.

The coroner's jury is deliberating on the case.

UNDERTAKER ROBS CORPSE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 4.—O. S. Osman, west side undertaker who led in the early work of recovering bodies of flood victims, was arrested this afternoon charged with robbing the body of Mrs. Sarah Scoville, flood victim, of $265. The affidavit against Osman was based on sworn statements of C. E. McCullough and F. L. Killworth, soldiers of the Ohio National guard signal corps, on duty on the west side. They declared that they took Mrs. Scoville's body to Osman's morgue, where a purse containing $265, was found in her clothing. Later, they said, Osman met them on the street and offered to divide the money with them if they remained silent. Osman was held under $1,000 bond.

KICK ON TRAIL LIMIT

MADISON, Wis., April 4.—(Special.)—Much opposition is arising to the bill limiting freight trains to fifty cars. The bill was introduced at the request of trainmen. Shippers are sending many protests to legislators. They say that the Wisconsin system of regulation has resulted in elimination of grades and that were a limit placed on the number of cars that may be hauled shipments would suffer and the people would ultimately pay the cost. The trainmen claim many accidents are due to long strings of cars, which cannot always be crowded into one siding. The hearing will be held in a week or so.

DISASTROUS FLOOD SHOWN AT LYRIC

Real Motion Pictures of the Greatest Disaster in History to Be Seen at Popular Theater

Before the cry for help from the unfortunate people of Dayton and the whole state of Ohio for financial aid has hardly died away, the Lyric theater is showing the original motion pictures of this most disastrous flood and fire which followed the receding of the waters. These Ohio and Dayton flood pictures are not stereoscopic views, but are the original motion pictures taken by a corps of camera men sent to Ohio by the Universal film company to obtain the best possible pictures, and after seeing them you will wonder where the camera was placed to get some of the scenes taken.

Manager H. H. Burford of the Lyric, says it is needless to state that the showing of motion pictures of disasters is expensive, as it follows that money does not enter into the question with the film manufacturers. The public wants to see all the events that happen, and the sooner they see them the better impression is left and the pictures are secured at any cost.

In order that everyone may have an opportunity to see this picture, which is about one thousand feet in length, the Lyric has secured them for tonight and Saturday. Go to the Lyric and see the reason President Wilson issued the call for financial aid from all the states of the union. You will be repaid for going out, even though the weather is not pleasant.

Swiss Schools.
One of the most attractive features of the Swiss schools is the cordial personal relation that exists between teacher and pupil. There is nothing of the military in the discipline of the school—no lining up, no marching to classes. When the children go to the classroom they shake hands with the teacher, greeting him as if they had not seen him for a long time and are really glad to see him. The whole relation is one of charming naturalness and kindness on both sides.

Serious Loss.
On the third day of his Aunt Jane's visit to the city Motorton took her for a ride in his high power runabout. They had proceeded only a mile or so when "Darn the luck!" exclaimed Motorton.

"Goodness! What's wrong?" said Aunt Jane.

"Engine's missing," tersely replied Motorton.

"Dear me!" said Aunt Jane. "I do hope it's been found by an honest person. Where do you suppose we dropped it?" Lippincott's.

AFTER THE FLOOD AND FIRE; RESCUERS AND RESCUED IN DAYTON

Futurism Affects Spring Fashions

NEW YORK, April 4.—Whether or not the new movement in art will have any direct bearing on color combinations, it is too early to predict. But certain it is that the bleedings of colors in the paintings of both Futurist and Post-impressionist are food for the artistic mind. A combination a year or so ago of bright yellow, red and purple would have occasioned a revulsion of feeling and an avalanche of criticism. The colorings would have seemed a hodgepodge. Now yellow has become one of the most fashionable shades, not only for evening, but for afternoon wear. To tone down this vivid color impression, purple and red has been adopted as a soothing relief, until those who have familiarized themselves with the palette of the present school appreciate the use to which the designers may turn the gaily-colored stuffs in silk and wool.

FIGURE ONE

Already it is evident that tones are no longer somber. The old staple blacks and whites have been relegated to a place in the past nor are shades, either pastel or half-tones, now considered in first fashion, although women of conservative taste will adhere to them and consider the new colors ostentatious and impossible. Yellows, blues, greens, purples and reds in vivid tones are now worn without any fear of criticism and will be among the fashionable colors of the coming season. A compromise is made by choosing a gown of pale tint and touching it with a glint of vivid color at waist or throat. Such a gown is illustrated in the first figure. It was developed in light gray messaline with girdle of Bulgarian silk wound about the waist, knotted loosely, and terminated in two ends falling midway to the knee. The vest front is of Milan lace. The skirt is fashionably caught up in two deep tucks across the front which, unconfined at the sides, form the folds of drapery.

One-piece frocks, notwithstanding the advent of spring and the fact that summer dresses are in the making, have lost none of their popularity. This is not surprising when it is remembered that no matter how simple they may be they present a finished costume effect. The openings at the fashionable shops have covered the whole range of advance summer modes. That the season's garments are to be characterized by style and beauty is proved by the features introduced, the fabrics chosen, and the grace of line and curve.

General lines will undergo no radical change. Waists in blouse effect, back and front having peplums, long or elbow-length sleeves, either close-fitting or on loose lines and coming from dropped or regulation shoulder seams, skirts narrow at the hem and broadening toward the skirt proper or cleverly inserted in an over-drop, are the features which dominate spring fashions. The sash as we knew it now, was introduced first in the midwinter season. To be sure, these charming accessories, in one style or another, never go quite out, but the sash of today is unique among its kind. It is made of bright-colored ribbon or soft messaline either in stripes, moiré or Bulgarian coloring. Sashes, too, in the new shades of Nell rose, flame, brilliant green, purple and French blue are worn with afternoon and evening gowns. Many of them are brought high on the corsage, others are suspended low over the hips. The sash is also a strong fashion note in the tailored suit, and is distinctly novel when tied in front. Sometimes it has long ends appearing in quite distracting fashion in the center-front from under a vested and cutaway coat.

The long Russian blouse of the winter will be replaced by one of much shorter length fashioned on loosely fitted lines. This coat is particularly well suited to slender figures, and when worn with a broad sash of any fancied shade of ribbon, is as girlish and pleasing as it is possible to conceive. For wear with these indifferently fitted jackets, skirts elaborately draped are much in favor. Walking is made possible the skilful introduction of slashes and inserts. Notwithstanding the fact that the finger of disapproval has been repeatedly pointed in their direction, slashed effects lead the fashion for afternoon and evening wear. The influence of this style on shoes and stockings is at once evident. Owing to the exposure of the feet and the prominence given to the shoes, only the daintiest dressing may be tolerated.

The materials used for frocks will continue to be soft. Crepes, both of fancy and plain weave, are very popular. The attractive gown of the second illustration was developed in gray crepe de chine with front, collar and belt of similar material in white. Bodice and sleeves are fashioned in one. The three-piece skirt has tunic of gray bordered crepe smartly draped and caught toward the center-back. The pointed train is a feature of the latest spring models. To accommodate the ample folds and soft material of prevailing afternoon and evening dress models, a wrap on loose lines is essential. A new style, known as the mantle wrap, is very attractive. To all outward appearance it has neither cut nor line, but great folds of material caught high in the center-back by a buckle and falling over the shoulders in layers merely suggestive of sleeves. Apparently, a piece of material three yards in length, confined in the center by an ornament and laid in drapery over the arms, answers the purpose. For this handsome, carelessly-flung-together garment only dainty and rich materials are used. Flowered taffeta, charmeuse matelasse and faille silk are most in favor. Sweaters for athletic coats have undergone considerable change. Ratine is as much in demand as the former tricot weave. These knitted coats have conspicuously bright colors introduced in belt, collar and cuffs. Light shades for steamer wear will be much in evidence. White, in wide-wale corduroy, will also prevail. Coats for this purpose are fashioned on ample lines with large kimono sleeves. A wide belt applied well above the waist-line is a notable feature.

not spontaneous. Klein refused to say what headway had been made.

LIGHTING MARVELS AT PANAMA FAIR

New Phases of Lighting Will Be Applied to Emphasize Splendors of Exposition Palaces

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 4.—Marvelous advances in illuminating materials and methods will enable San Francisco to illuminate the buildings of the Panama exposition, inside and out, in a way that would have been physically impossible five or six years ago. The skilled illuminating engineer is today enabled to produce light effects undreamed of at any of the former world's expositions.

To Mark Epoch
The lighting of the exposition will mark an epoch in the new and fascinating science of illumination. The entire plan of illumination is in charge of Mr. W. D'A. Ryan, director of illumination, who supervised the illumination of the Hudson-Fulton celebration, of Niagara Falls, and who is directing the illumination of the Panama canal throughout its length to the high seas on either side. In the exposition there will not be a single article of lighting equipment that was ever used before. More than fifty thousand dollars have been expended in a single line of experimentation—the development of cut glass reflectors to be known as "jewels," for use at the exposition. Most of these have been made in Germany and the results produced through their reflected light will be among the superb lighting effects.

The most striking phase of the illumination plan lies in the fact that there will be no dark shadows. At night the exposition palaces with the details of their facades and statuary will be seen as clearly as if by day. Great paintings upon the walls, screened by the colonnades of the courts, will appear in their true color values as if in daylight, but with their contrasts enhanced and intensified. Perfect reflections of whole buildings will be reproduced in the lagoons upon the exposition grounds. In the harbor before the grounds batteries of colored searchlights will throw their rays against the towers and minarets, picking out the colors, and against the reflecting jewels, which will reflect and radiate shafts of colored light throughout the exposition city. The zone of general illumination will extend twice the height of the tallest exhibit palaces.

Direct and Reflected.
Both direct and indirect or reflected lighting will be employed at the exposition. Mr. Ryan is working in accord with Mr. Jules Guerin, director of color, an artist whose work is as popular in Europe as in America. Most expositions appear too bright and often the sightseer goes away with tired eyes. Mr. Guerin has conceived a marvelous color scheme through which there will be no dead white upon the exposition grounds. Mr. Ryan has planned that there will be no glare and no dark places or black shadows at night.

Outline lighting will not be adopted. Although the contours of the buildings is brought out by this method much of the architecture and most of the finer details would be lost through dark shadows. The architectural splendors of the exposition will be brought out to the best possible advantage in both form and color and maintaining the daylight perspective. By night the exhibition in all its details will be a magnificent picture. All Guerin's colors, the burnt orange, vermilion, cerulean blue and gold of the courts, the gold and blue of the recesses of the towers, the vast friezes of red, yellow and blue, the red tiles of the roofs, the golden domes and the copper-green minarets will be seen at night enhanced and glorified.

Batteries of Light
In the harbor some six hundred yards off the exposition grounds will be great batteries of searchlights mounted upon pontoons; masked

UNITED STATES IS NOT TO INTERFERE

Bryan Says U. S. Can Do Nothing for American Suffragette Imprisoned in England

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The United States government will not make formal protest to the British government over the case of Miss Zelle Emerson, the American suffragette now imprisoned in Holloway Jail, London, unless it is apparent that Miss Emerson is discriminated against. Secretary of State Bryan made this clear in the following statement yesterday afternoon:

"Since Miss Emerson was sentenced to two months at hard labor for breaking windows in a suffrage agitation, the embassy has been observing Miss Emerson's case closely and has advised suffrage workers to the effect that it could take no official step in the case unless discrimination to the disadvantage of a citizen of the United States could be shown."

"It appears that a day or two before Miss Emerson's arrest on the charge for which she is at present serving sentence, she was arrested on a similar charge and was sentenced to fine or imprisonment. She chose the latter. Her fine was paid, however, and she was liberated. Almost immediately she repeated the same offense. Her present sentence originally included imprisonment with hard labor but this was subsequently remitted to simple imprisonment. "Her treatment has not been in any way different from that accorded British women unless it be that her case has met with more leniency. Since she began a 'hunger strike' she has, in common with British offenders, been fed by a stomach tube in the presence of physicians and under their direction. Miss Emerson's mother of Detroit, Mich., has been with her daughter about a week. She has been allowed an interview of an hour, although the usual permission if accorded at all, does not exceed fifteen minutes. "Furthermore, she has made no complaint whatever as to her daughter's treatment and has no charge to make that the feeding by a stomach tube has been applied in a manner to cause any discomfort inseparable from any nature."

The Adder.
A full grown adder may measure two feet in length and about six inches around the thickest part of its body. Its movements are sluggish, and, of course, the idea that it is capable of transferring its head from one extremity to the other every six months is due simply to superstition. The fact is that the tail of this snake does not terminate in a point, as with ophidians generally, but is stumpy and resembles the head so much that it is difficult for an observer situated at a distance of a few yards to distinguish the one from the other; hence the story of its being two headed, the fallacy of which no intelligent observer could fail to detect.

FRANKLINS ARGUE MINIMUM WAGE

Negative Side of Debate Disputes Statement that Low Wages Causes Vice

POVERTY NOT THE CHIEF EVIL

Compare Humanitarian Law with Dollars and Cents and Loss to Employer

The jury consisting of L. H. Stickler, P. W. Mahoney and C. F. Figlie, returned a unanimous decision in favor of the negative side of the question debated last night in Fielstad hall by the Franklin club. "Resolved, that the state of Wisconsin should enact a minimum wage law of eight dollars a week for women." The debate largely consisted of arguments as to whether a minimum wage would tend to higher or lower the moral code of men and women. The negative side brought forward testimony proving that the saloon, the back alley and the wine room were the cause of immorality and not the low wage. They held that these are the chief evils of the day, and that if they would be eliminated the men would make enough to bring home all their money to their wives and children, and that there would be enough money to support the household.

Mr. Hayden, the first speaker for the affirmative, declared that unorganized girls did not receive a living wage, and that they were obliged to live, in many instances, in poverty or seek immoral means of getting a living. He compared the humanitarian measure with dollars and cents, and life with cold cash. Mr. Hayden said that some argue that business could not be maintained with a higher wage scale, but he declared that it could.

W. E. Barber spoke for the negative. He stated that he was in a business where he employed a number of girls, and that if a wage of eight dollars would be compelled in Wisconsin he would have to increase his pay roll fifty dollars a week, and that he would have to do one of two things, either "go out of business," or "raise the price of his product."

Mr. Barber. "We must investigate the blind alleys, and places of vice that are causing more misery and poverty stricken homes than a low wage. A man will arise some day, who will be strong willed enough to wipe out these evils. A great part of the immorality of women today is caused by their own unrest."

D. L. Wartinbee, first assistant on the side of the affirmative, declared that vice did not enter into the controversy of a minimum wage scale. He said, "the proposed enactment is to allow women to have the benefits of life. A man or woman today working for little or nothing has nothing to look forward to in life. Why should one person live in a mansion and another in a hovel, in a country that overflows in riches?"

Professor Harry Spence who spoke for the negative, said that the investigation committees are afraid to do anything practical in a reform line. "If we had a minimum wage set," he said, "more girls would leave school in order to work, and have more money than their parents could give them. Girls would not make any better use of eight dollars a week than of four dollars. A high wage scale would allow the girls to lay off occasionally and this would make factory conditions bad. Girls have not the interest in work that men have, as they do not look into the future welfare of the business they are working for, as they expect to marry some day. A large majority of the girls who work in factories are of a drifting disposition, and so from one factory to another. Can you start these girls in your factory at eight dollars a week?"

Roy Ahlstrom closed for the affirmative and Joseph Dubraks spoke as the second assistant of the negative.

TRAINS WARNED AT EVERY MILE

Milwaukee Installs Block System to Reduce the Danger of Wrecks

Seven cars of appliances to be used on the La Crosse division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, in the installation of the new signal block system, passed through the city yesterday. The company has finished installing the blocks on the River division.

This system as is used on other parts of the Milwaukee lines, and on other large railroads, brings the possibility of danger down to a minimum. The signal posts, with semaphores showing day and night are placed a mile apart, allowing train crews coming in both directions to tell if a train is within a mile of them. This gives plenty of time for them to stop.

The fitting out of the division with the new system will involve a great expense to the company. The Milwaukee company has organized a "safety first" league in their endeavors to make their road the safest for employees and public, and this step is the last word in safety appliances.

Chief Car Inspector J. F. Davies visited the north side offices yesterday on an inspection tour.

"We have too long been punishing the wrong people. We send these women to the Bridewell and let the procurers go free to rake the market for more victims."

SIX STRIKERS ARE SHOT BY POLICE

Two of the Wounded Are Women and Man and Woman Are Expected to Die

AUBURN, N. Y., April 4.—Six twine mill strikers—two of them
women—were shot and seriously wounded by the police today in a battle that raged before the plant of the Columbia Rope company. One man and one woman are expected to die.

The trouble arose when the strikers gathered in front of the plant to do picket duty. The city authorities had ordered the police to suppress the strikers because of the previous trouble.

The police arrested a striker for shouting at workers in the plant and his companions remonstrated. At first the police only used their clubs
but as the strikers fought back the police drew their revolvers and fired directly into the crowd.

Painful Operation.
She—"John, why on earth are you wearing those goggles?" John—"Only a moment, dear, until I finish this grapefruit."

TAILOR-MADE SUIT OF STRIKING DESIGN

One of the more striking effects possible in the season's styles is shown in this costume designed by Fernand of Paris. It is a tailor-made suit of black and white check-ed broadcloth. The coat is of brick-colored material trimmed with checks. The effect is stunning.

TWO STAR ACTS AT MAJESTIC THEATER

Cherry Sisters and Will Rogers Divide Between
the Honors of the Show

The double headliner bill which re-opens a season of vaudeville at the Majestic this week sets a high standard with two acts of the class of the Cherry sisters and Will Rogers. The Cherry sisters lived up to their international reputation as laugh provokers last night. Their first appearance was the signal for a storm of mirth, and the songs and readings which followed made sides ache. "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" brought down the house.

Will Rogers, Oklahoma cowboy
and rope artist, made his biggest hit with his tongue. He swung the rope, of course, in a dozen different ways
that were original, but he got all his big laughs with his unassuming gos-
p with the audience. He "kidded"
every other act on the bill, and did it so oddly that everybody in the house had to laugh. They wouldn't let him go, and he was forced to respond to several encores.

"The Danger Point," one act dramatic sketch, is replete with thrills, and has a cleverly presented plot. It is not until the last minute that the correct interpretation of events
comes to the audience. The suspense is well handled throughout, and the sketch is admirably acted by Edgar Foreman and company. It would be unfair to outline the plot, but it is sufficient to say that it is convincing.

Gilmore and Castle, blackface
comedians, sing a little and dance
a little, and talk a lot. The talking is the best part of it, especially a very teary curtain speech which an encore draws from Mr. Castle. The singing is pleasing, the dancing is speedy and the whole act is liberally
larded with jokes of recent vintage.

Test of Sobriety.

Many shibboleths have been devised
for testing sobriety. George Meredith, who doubtless could have evolved
some wonderful examples, had he chosen, calls them "oinometers," or methods of determining the condition of man, according to the degrees of wine or beer in him. One of the most snareful of these is the sentence,
"Give James Grimes' gilt gig-whip,
and a cup of coffee from a copper coffee pot."—London Chronicle.

Alloys of Gold and Iron.

Iron and gold, when melted together, may be mixed in various proportions and hardened or crystallized. Alloys containing ten per cent. of gold are harder than pure iron, but as the proportion of gold increases above that amount, the alloy becomes softer. Silver and iron do not form alloys.—Harper's Weekly.

neighboring banks, except during the wars with England, when French ships were temporarily driven from these seas.

His Position.

"What are your views on the great public problems?" "I haven't any views on public problems," replied
the man whose interests are under investigation. "I'm one of them myself."

Fixing Carpet Rug.

When a hole is worn in your carpet rug whip over the edges of the hole with yarn, matching the colors in the rug; then, also with yarn, fill in the hole with very tight crocheted stitches, using a plain stitch; then over this work little loops of yarn that will correspond to the loops in the weave of the carpet.

What Was Worrying Him.

A taxicab caught fire in New York.
The flames reached the gasoline tank.
The two passengers, who had come a long way, tumbled out. The fire department was summoned. "Play on the meter!" shrieked the distracted driver to the firemen. "Never mind
the cab—play on the meter!"

NOT LAZY NOT STUPID

Friends Fused at Her For Being Lazy, When All She Needed Was Cardui, The Woman's Tonic.

Springfield, Tenn.—In an interesting letter from this place, Miss C.
L. Fuquay writes as follows: "I was taken sick at my sister's home, got up too soon and came to my home, which threw me into chills. This resulted in womanly troubles.

I was without either energy or appetite, and my friends fussed at me for my stupidity, and said I was lazy.

But anyhow, I grew worse, and after taking to my bed, I was under the treatment of a physician for over a month, without relief.

At last my mother bought me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic,
and before the first bottle was gone, I was eating heartily, and before I had taken all of four bottles,
I was O. K. in every way.

Cardui is what brought me relief,
and I hope every woman who suffers as I did, will give it a trial."

Cardui goes to the weak spots, and helps to make them strong. It is for the weak, tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as though everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their restless nerves,
and strengthen their worn-out systems.

Thousands of women now enjoy good health, as a result of taking Cardui. Why not you? Try it.

SOCIETY

SURPRISE FOR JUNE BRIDE

Tuesday evening a very pleasant surprise was given in honor of Miss Anna Mueller, who is to be a June bride. The color scheme of the different decorations were red. The evening was spent in instrumental music and singing.

The dining room table was centered with a bouquet of red carnations.
At 10:30 the young ladies sat down and partook of a delicious lunch
which was served by Miss Elizabeth Mueller, sister of the bride-to-be.
Miss Anna was presented with a beautiful cut glass water set and plate. Those present were: The Misses Anna Mueller, Ella Mitchell,

Bushek and Elizabeth Mueller.

Second street, was pleasantly surprised last evening by her children and grand children, the occasion being her seventy-eighth birthday. Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a delightful time, none more than the honored hostess.

A crowd estimated at 150 couples attended the ninth annual grand ball
given by La Crosse Aerie No. 1254, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at the new Elks' hall, Fifth and State

tinctively decorated with eagle emblems and colors, the result of careful work on the part of the arrangements committee. Music for dancing was supplied by the complete Andre orchestra.

George of Chicago; Messrs. Russell

"Improved" Bull Fight.

A bull fight in Tokio is quite as much excuse for a gala day as a full fight in Madrid. Business men leave their offices, and women and children
their homes, to hurry to the arena.
Stripped of all the less exciting, or less horrible, preliminaries which characterize the Spanish bull fight, the animals are brought in and sent at each other at once. So the battle is shorter, and two or three more fights will follow in quick succession during the course of an afternoon's entertainment."

WOULD QUARANTINE TUBERCULAR COWS

Wants Law to Prevent the Wholesale Waste in Handling of Diseased
Cattle

MADISON, Wis., April 4.—(Special.)—Dr. O. H. Eliason, state veterinarian, has been agitating proposed legislation, the idea of which seems to have been original with him, to obviate wholesale waste in the handling of tubercular cattle. Dr.
Eliason proposes that the legislature now sitting shall enact a law which will authorize the Wisconsin Livestock sanitary board to permit individual owners or companies, upon application to it, to establish quarantine farms for the purpose of raising healthy calves from tubercular cattle, under what is known as the "Bang system," and in confirmation with such rules and regulations as may be established by the board. The bill will also provide for the transfer of ownership of tubercular cattle intended to be used upon such quarantine premises from the original owner to the owner of the quarantine establishment, when sanctioned
by the board.

A bill is now being drafted for such legislation, and its sponsors are optimistic as to its final passage.
Just what the regulations will be is not known at this stage, but it is certain that some of the following rules will be imposed:

The premises will be required to be situated so that there will be no surface drainage upon adjoining pasture land. Strict regulations will be imposed as to the matter of fencing
and it will be likely that such premises will be required to be enclosed in a double fence, the inner fences to be maintained at a distance of at least ten rods from the line fences and public driveways, and both fences to be kept in good repair at all times. The premises must be placarded. The distance of the buildings upon such premises from adjoining buildings will be fixed. No other animals which are destined for breeding and dairy purposes will be kept upon these premises. It is expected that the livestock sanitary board will prohibit the sale of milk
from tubercular cattle upon such premises from being sold or removed from the premises either as milk, cheese or butter, nor permit them to be used for human consumption upon the premises. No animals of any kind will be permitted to be removed from the quarantined premises except under direction of the board. It is further provided that the removal of cattle to the quarantine premises shall in all cases be supervised by the state veterinarian or one of his deputies.

BADGER WRESTLERS MEET

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 4.—
Amateur wrestlers from all over Wisconsin, bent on securing new laurels,
will participate in the tourney
at the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium here tonight. For each of the five classes of entries, trophies are provided, with gold and silver medals
for second and third place.

Memory Gems for Children.

Children learn readily of right thinking and right doing through anecdote and memory gem. We cannot give them too many memory gems, provided they are suited to their age and intelligence. Every thought will not affect every child, but every thought will affect some child. Robert Louis Stevenson said he was brought up on poetry and stories, and these poems and stories were the source of his later inspiration.

Canada's Oyster Industry.

There are no oysters on the coast
of New England, north of Cape Cod,
but they are numerous in certain parts of the Gulf of St. Lawrence and adjacent Canadian waters. Efforts are being made by the Dominion government to develop the oyster industry to much larger proportions than its present comparatively small size.

Directing Children Aright.

The young need to be taught that although there is sometimes a pleasure of the senses in committing sin,
it is inevitably followed by remorse
and punishment. Crime, remorse, punishment form an inseparable trio.
On the other hand, while it is often hard to do right, the sense of satisfaction, self-respect and self-control that follows right action is worth all the effort made.

Before Visiting Sick.

An infectious disease is more liable to be taken when one has been long fasting than soon after a meal. It is well, therefore, when going to see a friend suffering from a disease of this kind to eat a substantial meal first.
Neither should one go into an affected area when very warm or after a long,
quick walk, when the pores of the body are all open.

Butcher Shop for Cats.

There is a butcher shop in New York city that is unique in one way at least. It has been there more than 30 years. From the very beginning its proprietor, in addition to his regular ery morning there is set forth on a long counter about 100 trays of cats' meat.

FASHIONS FOR LAWN AND BEACH

Edited by
MAY MANTON

GOWNS and blouses for midsummer occasions are charmingly attractive and dainty this season. Silks and muslins are having equal vogue and both are lovely in the extreme. Silks include the thinnest and lightest taffetas that scarcely mean any appreciable warmth, the fourths that are so thoroughly satisfactory and comfortable and the new radium silks that are as light and fascinating as those of the Orient, while they are provided in an infinite variety of color and design.

Muslins mean in this day the beautiful marisettes and voiles as well as the lovely lincens and batistes, and this summer one sees an equal number of white gowns, colored gowns and white gowns relieved with color. Black and white, too, is exceedingly smart, and a great many lovely effects are obtained by its judicious handling. Some of the smartest gowns designed for garden parties and occasions of the kind are made from sheer white fabrics, lace trimmed, with a little bit of black footing introduced at the neck and sleeves, and the black gives an inexpressible touch of smartness.

There are a great many black coats, too, worn over white gowns as well as those of color, and for the little coats will be used charmeuse, messaline and taffeta. Black lined with white is exceedingly fashionable and exceedingly handsome, and as many of the silks are made very thin and light, even two thicknesses do not mean any great warmth.

Silk gowns are largely trimmed with the fabric, which is made up into all kinds of fascinating little frills and puffs that are delightfully quaint in effect and suggestive of the earlier period from which we are taking so many hints and suggestions; but we are not reproducing any styles in spite of that fact, for we have modified the fashions of the past to suit our own needs, and we retain the long slender lines, even while we are using trimming that once meant fluffiness and breadth.

The Greek idea is apparent in many ways, and every kind of simple little tunic is worn. Those to match the skirt are much liked, but they are also frequently made of lace, chiffon and other thin materials to be worn over skirts of something a little thicker and heavier.

We are using lace of almost every kind, and often two sorts are combined upon a single costume; but in a general way it may be said that thin laces are used upon heavy materials and heavy laces upon thin materials. Shadow lace and Chantilly lace are extreme favorites among the thinner sorts—Cluny, Irish and the new ratine, among the heavier ones, although ratine is scarcely available for thin fabrics, being especially suited to linen and materials of similar kind.

Little blouses, or coatees, in combination with lingerie gowns are very charming and very attractive, and they are made from thin silk in contrasting color.

For garden parties and occasions of the kind this color is often very bright, such as cerise or lichen green, and the effect is picturesque in the extreme.

Gowns made all in one are so easily adjusted and so satisfactory that a certain number are sure to be included in every summer wardrobe.

The closing right down the center front is a feature of the season, and a rather important one, for it means the gown that can be slipped on and for the closing are used all sorts of devices, handsome buttons, ornaments of braid and tubing, and the little flat bows are so fashionable and beneath which hooks and eyes can be sewed without being seen.

Silk makes a very strong impression and it is unquestionably a favorable material. If at first thought it seems a little heating for summer wear, investigation destroys even that objection for it is made in the thinnest, lightest of weaves and it is often far cooler than linen in spite of the established favor which the latter fabric has had for so many years.

Taffeta is fashionable even extremely fashionable and the gowns of white taffeta for afternoon functions are as lovely and dainty as possible but charmeuse with its dull satin finish is constantly gaining in favor and is marvelously beautiful while far more practical than at first thought it is.

PRETTY FANCY BAGS.

The present might well be called a season of accessories, so many pretty and attractive ones are used. Bags are really an important feature of dress, for they are carries with almost every toilette and made from a variety of materials. For the afternoon and evening costumes, they are made of pretty and dainty fabrics and often are entirely of lace or chiffon with lace trimming. They are just about big enough to carry a handkerchief and, perhaps, a small purse, without which it is never safe to be found, and they are finished with cords or ribbon, so that they make an attractive addition to the toilette while serving a practical purpose. The simple, old-fashioned reticule shape is quite correct and is, indeed, attractive in its quaintness and well suited to the present materials and styles. But there are bags made with pasteboard bottoms a little more practical and easier to open.

SUITABLE gowns for summer resorts always make a subject of interest, and this season, being productive of so much that is beautiful and attractive means unusual fascination. Among the very latest developments are draped skirts and coatee blouses, while with both the silk and lingerie costume are worn sashes that are in themselves a most interesting study.

White silk gowns are among the smartest of all things, and white taffeta with trimming of frills makes an exceedingly smart as well as exceedingly handsome costume that is especially desirable at the seashore and the mountains, where lingerie fabrics are so likely to succumb to atmospheric conditions.

White, with a little bit of color found in the girdle or trimming, is very handsome, and American Beauty and cerise reds and rich greens are being much used in such ways; but although white is fashionable color is equally so, and some of the handsomest costumes seen are made of flowered silk, white striped linens and fabrics of the kind are in great demand for gowns of the sturdier sort.

Figured and plain materials are combined in a single costume, too, to produce charming results, and the combination is smart, whether the material is silk, linen or cotton. Eyelet embroidered linen with plain makes exceedingly beautiful gowns and as such material largely trims itself the models chosen for such combinations naturally are simple.

Sleeves alone make a subject replete with interest, for we are wearing kimono sleeves, "set-in" sleeves and sleeves slightly full at the shoulders, and all are correct—all are fashionable. Kimono sleeves are always pretty, always graceful, and women are loth to give them up, while the best dressmakers are using them in generous numbers; but there are certain practical advantages found in the other sorts, and Fashion declares that all are correct.

SIMPLE gowns are always the ones in demand for the early hours of the summer days and for the outings that contribute so largely to warm weather pleasure. Linen is a favorite material both for the grown-ups and the children, but there are also a great many soft finished piqués worn this season, and some of the corded cottons woven in bengaline style are extremely handsome, while among the thinner and lighter fabrics are French and Scotch ginghams, the linen chambrays that are always so beautiful, lawns, batistes and the like.

Cotton voiles are very smart also, and the striped ones make exceedingly beautiful dresses that are delightfully light and cool to wear. Black and white stripes piped with American Beauty red or leaf green are very fashionable and exceedingly attractive, and there are various ways in which all the fabrics of the summer can be trimmed. Scalloped edges are among the smartest of all things. The smaller ones are buttonholed, the larger ones bound, but however they are treated they give a very distinctive touch to any costume.

Children's dresses show a great deal of trimming of darker colors on light.

Round necks and open necks are greatly in vogue, and they are so pretty and cool in effect that they deserve all the favor shown them; but in nothing is Dame Fashion really autocratic just now, and we may wear chemisettes and stock collars without demur if they are more becoming or more satisfactory.

Parasols of white taffeta with borders couched with black silk cord and with black handles of carved wood are among mid-summer novelties. They are not designed for mourning wear but are smart to be carried with the white costumes touched with black that are so much in vogue.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, April 4.—Higher prices in the northwest, firmness in Liverpool and the feeling that floods would reduce the wheat acreage gave wheat futures strength today. May opened 3/4c and July 1/2c over yesterday's close. May held firm at that figure during the morning, but July was easier later in the morning when commission houses unloaded at the advanced prices.
Corn started firm, but suffered a reaction, both months declining until at noon they were slightly under yesterday's close. The buying force that supported the market yesterday was absent today.
Offerings in oats was fairly heavy and there was moderate buying as an offset. The options were firm and practically unchanged.
Provisions opened easier, but had a late morning recovery. Commission house buying on the early dip gave new strength to the market.
Corn was from 1/4 to 3/4c easier in the afternoon, but wheat and oats practically were at a standstill. Provisions were unchanged in the afternoon trading and closed steady.

BIRD ARGUES FOR THE "BUCK LAW"

La Crosse Man in Magazine Article Quotes Expert Who Favors Protecting Does

PROBLEM LIKE THAT OF CATTLE

Declares Even Game Hog Should Be Able to See Advantage in Increase of Herds

EDITOR'S NOTE—

The following article is an extract from a discussion of the "buck law" written by John P. Bird, president of the Wisconsin association of sportsmen, for "Forest and Stream."

"Common sense, economy and public safety demand that the so-called 'Buck Law,' prohibiting the killing of female deer and fawns at all times be enacted in every state where it is not now in force."

This statement was elicited from John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protection and Propagation Association of New York, in connection with the present agitation in favor of a buck law in Michigan, which George Shiras, 3rd, one of the foremost naturalists of the country, has been advocating.

Shows Advantages

"In connection with Dr. Fisher and Professor Beal, of the Biological survey," Mr. Burnham continued, "Mr. Shiras has prepared a table which shows in a striking way the advantages of the buck law in increasing the number of deer which can properly be killed each year. These figures show that if twenty-four does and twenty-four bucks, age two years, be protected for ten years allowing annually thereafter an average of one and one-half fawns per pair; there would be 1,560 of each sex or a total of 3,120 deer in the herd. Taking the same number to start with, and shooting 50 per cent of each year's bucks and does indiscriminately, the herd would be exterminated at the end of the same period, and only 155 deer would have been killed. If we shoot only 50 per cent of the bucks, we will have killed 781 of them in ten years, a like number will remain and there will be a breeding herd of 1,562 does."

"These figures should convince even the game hogs of the advisability of protecting does. The only people who can be impervious to the argument which they present are those who would like to exterminate our deer immediately with no thought for the rights of future generations, and the wishes of such persons should hardly be considered by legislative bodies."

Like Cattle Problem

"To put the matter in a way with which everybody is familiar, over herds of deer present the same problems that owners of cattle have to face. In any one year a stockman could realize more heavily by killing and marketing all his cattle. However, as such a course would put him out of business or force him to lose his profit in the purchase of new animals, he keeps the greater part of his cows and disposes of most of his bulls. Only other method would be considered insane if followed by a private owner, yet there are still many states in which the public owners of deer pursue the disastrous course of killing the males and females alike."

Besides the figures given by Mr. Shiras in support of the buck law, we have the practical experience of more than half of the deer hunting states of the union, in which it is new in force, and in every case this tends to establish the accuracy of the theoretical estimate. When the law was enacted in Vermont, the deer had been practically exterminated in that state and it was necessary to import them. At the present time more deer are killed in Vermont than in any area of similar size in North America, and that this is so is due entirely to the protection of does."

tion of does. "But it is not only for economic reasons that the buck law is necessary. The appalling number of people shot by mistake in the woods in states which do not demand that a hunter see the horns before he shoots, supply eloquent testimony that this precaution is essential to public safety."

"With the increase in population dangers from the incautious use of firearms become yearly greater. The only argument that can be offered against observing the restrictions placed on hunters by the buck law is that in trying to tell whether a deer is a buck or a doe, the hunter may lose a shot, and such an argument carries no weight when we know that the time taken to make the distinction may save the life of another hunter. This argument is only offered by the tyro, and while it would be foolish to say that the tyro should not be allowed to hunt, it is certain that his inexperience should not be allowed to endanger the lives of others. There is no one thing which will do so much toward cutting down the annual loss of life in the woods as the general adoption and stringent enforcement of the buck law."
